

More Than 4,000 Reported Killed In Chilean Quake

Total May Reach 12,000, Government Reports Say
RELIEF RUSHED

Manufacturer States '60 Per Cent' of Concepcion Razed

Santiago, Chile.—(P)—First government reports today gave more than 4,000 dead and the total may go above 12,000 in the earthquake that spread ruin and terror through central Chile Tuesday night.

The government communique was the first official tabulation of the death and damage and it was far from complete. Estimates of 12,000 dead came from aviators who flew over the region's hardest hit, 250 miles south of Santiago in the heart of the agricultural belt, from refugees who came out by air and from amateur radio operators.

The communique confirmed that the ancient city of Chillan, associated with early Chilean history, was destroyed. More than 300 were killed in a theater collapse and the total dead there was put at between 3,000 and 4,000. The population is 40,000.

"Sixty per cent" of Concepcion—known to tourists as the city of the perfumed plaza because of its beautiful linden trees—was destroyed. The communique gave no estimate of dead among the population of 77,000 but aviators and a manufacturer who flew out agreed that 2,000 was a likely figure.

Many Reports of Deaths
Talco, with a population of 65,000 and known as one of the proudest cities in South America, suffered heavy damage but only five dead were listed there.

From more than a score of towns came reports of dead, of homes and jails that collapsed, of fire, of lack of water and light, and of food shortage.

The quake was felt through a 450-mile strip from Valparaiso, north of Santiago, south along the coast. The Concepcion-Talco-Chillan region 250 miles south, was the most seriously affected.

Many of the houses in the region are of ancient brick, some walls six feet thick, with heavy tile roofing. Only in recent years have the larger cities required quake-withstanding construction of steel.

Hospital Collapses
The government announcement related that a hospital collapsed at Cauquenes, town of 6,500 noted for its mineral springs, killing 20. Seventy died when the jail fell.

San Carlos suffered heavy damage and Longavi was nearly demolished, but from these and other towns death tabulations were lacking.

To speed rescue operations, the government ordered the military to take over radio stations. Special trains, destroyers, planes, trucks and merchant vessels sped to the stricken region with doctors, nurses, food and medicine.

Some officials gave credence to estimates that the dead in Chillan might total 10,000.

Chillan is the nation's most historic city, named after an Araucanian chief. It is the birthplace of Bernard O'Higgins who was the George Washington of Chile.

The wording of statements from semi-official quarters on the death estimates were issued while all were being made.

3 Youths Escape From Institution in Storm

Union Grove.—(P)—Three inmates escaped from the Southern Colony and Training school here last night, dashing out into a heavy snowstorm.

Officials at the institution listed the three as James Thompson, 24, Sylvester Gonsky, 24, and Edward Kopynski, 20.

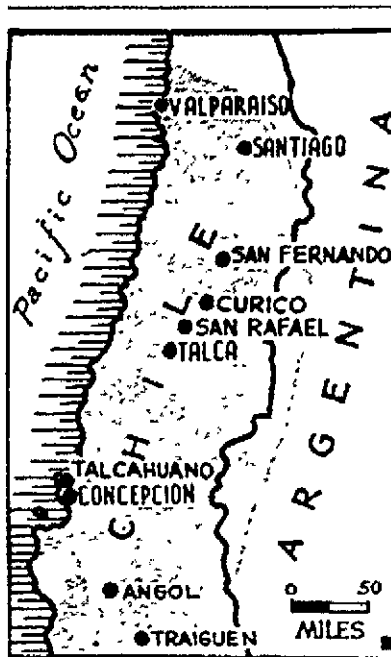

They were traced through the snow eastward toward Sturtevant. Deputies and police were warned by radio to be on the lookout for the trio.

SWING LAYS AN EGG

The question why chickens grow fat and tender under the influence of music is here answered once and for all. By radio or phonograph the poultry raiser provides a daily fare of swing-tunes in the hen house. Swing brings the jitters, the chickens eat the jitters, and there you are. And their eggs are as full of good meat as the Post-Crescent classified wanted ads are of good results.

This Associated Press map locates, in the shaded area, the towns struck by a midnight earthquake in Chile. Forty per cent of the houses in Concepcion were reported completely destroyed. Military aviators from Santiago surveyed the stricken area.

Ask Legislation Against Hiring Strike-Breakers

LaFollette and Thomas To Offer Measures In Congress

Washington.—(P)—The senate civil liberties committee recommended today that congress adopt legislation to prevent employers from engaging professional strike-breakers.

Summing up their two-year investigation of industrial labor relations, Chairman LaFollette (P-Utah) and Senator Thomas (D-Iowa) announced they were preparing such legislation.

This, they said, would not in any way affect the right of an employer to provide legitimate watchmen or patrolmen to guard his property.

"It should, however," the report said, "subject him to penalties for the tactics of aggression, intimidation, provocation, deception, and brutality, carried out by irresponsible mercenaries who have cost the nation so much in human life, suffering, bitterness, and misery since 1885."

The committee said it had investigated "the structure of the strike-breaking business" thoroughly in its hearings, including its inquiry last summer into the "Little Steel" strike of 1937.

Two Killed, Eight Hurt In London Train Crash

London.—(P)—Two persons were killed and eight injured seriously today when a fast passenger train crashed into the rear of another train on the London North Eastern railway main line two miles north of Hatfield.

Two cars were telescoped in the crash, which was attributed to a signal system defect caused by yesterday's heavy snowstorm. Snow drifts hampered rescue work and disrupted rail and highway communications throughout England.

Conflicting Economic Views Center of Senate Argument Over Confirmation of Amlie

Washington.—(P)—Thomas R. Amlie, new appointee to the interstate commerce commission, was said by his Republican successor in the house today to be committed to "revolutionary" changes in the government which would put us on a plane with a Marxian socialist government did he have his way.

Stephen Bolles, who succeeded Amlie as representative from the First Wisconsin district, asserted in a house speech that Amlie, named for the commission Monday by President Roosevelt, was among other things for public ownership of railroads.

Washington.—(P)—A senate fight over confirmation of Thomas R. Amlie, an interstate commerce commissioner, was assuming today the proportions of a broad conflict of economic views.

Some senators expressed opposition to Amlie because his views as embodied in legislation he proposed when a member of the house from Wisconsin. Others were quick to announce approval of the nomination.

Senator Andrews (D-Fla.) said President Roosevelt's appointment of the former Progressive congressman to a federal commission could not be classed in the same category as his recent cabinet selections.

Several senators announced they voted for confirmation of Harry Hopkins as secretary of commerce, despite their opposition to the appointment, because they believe the president should have a free hand in selecting his cabinet. Some of these said no such consideration was involved in the Amlie appointment.

Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont.) announced the interstate commerce committee would give Amlie, who was defeated for the Progressive nomination for the senate in Wisconsin last summer, full opportunity to explain his congressional record.

Wheeler added that a resolution passed by the Wisconsin legislature, urging Mr. Roosevelt to withdraw the appointment of the senate to reject it, also would be considered.

While in the house Amlie sponsored a proposed constitutional amendment for government ownership and management of business, manufacturing, industry and banking.

In this connection, Senator Norris (I-Neb.) commented: "I don't believe that it disqualifies a man to be an inter-state commerce commissioner if he believes in government ownership of the railroads."

On the other hand, Senator Austin (R-Vt.) said he believed the committee should make a thorough investigation of Amlie's proposed legislation.

Martin Launches Legal Battle to Retain His Post

Cuts All Ties With John L. Lewis, Chairman of CIO

New York.—(P)—Formerly severing all ties with CIO Chairman John L. Lewis, his former mentor, Homer Martin opened a legal battle today to retain his post as president of the United Automobile Workers of America.

Martin, who was "impeached" recently by the same 15 U.A.W. board members he "suspended" in a factional battle, resigned from the CIO's executive board in a letter he made public here yesterday, terming Lewis a dictatorial "betrayer" of labor.

His action followed the recognition by the CIO—through Vice Presidents Philip Murray and Sidney Hillman—of the 15 "suspended" members as the U.A.W. ruling board and R. J. Thomas, instead of Martin, as president.

Martin, 38-year-old former clergyman, disclosed he had retained two well-known labor attorneys, Frank P. Walsh of New York and Frank Mulholland of Toledo, to represent him Saturday in a hearing in Detroit. They will fight an injunction obtained by his opponents tying up the expenditure of union funds and disposition of union property.

Accuses Lewis
In his letter to Lewis resigning from the CIO executive board, Martin accused the CIO chairman of trying to destroy the auto union's autonomy and betraying the "principles and policies of a democratic labor movement" by trying to become its personal dictator.

Whether the auto workers remained in the CIO organization, he added, would be determined by delegates at a convention called by him in Detroit for March 4. His foes have called a rival convention in Cleveland for March 27.

Describing his resignation from the CIO executive board as a personal matter, Martin said he had talks with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and planned none.

Charges by the opposing faction that Martin and Harry Bennett, Ford Motor company personnel director, were negotiating to form a company union in Ford plants, played an important part in precipitating the split among the auto union's officials.

In Detroit, the U. A. W. executive board headed by acting President Thomas sent telegrams to U.A.W. locals instructing them "not to recognize any orders, instructions or requests" by Martin and his four-man board.

Solons Pay Tribute to Late Budget Director

Madison.—(P)—While funeral services were held today for James B. Borden, financial adviser of several state administrations, the Wisconsin legislature adopted resolutions commending his public service and adjourned in his memory.

Many senators and assemblymen, in addition to official delegations, joined Governor Julius P. Heil, Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland, Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman and other officials, friends, and members of the family in the services held at the Masonic temple.

Investment Firm Is Ruled Solvent

Arbiter Recommends Dismissal of Receivership Proceedings

Wheeling, W. Va.—(P)—A court-appointed arbiter reported today that the Fidelity Investment association, a nation-wide investment loan organization, was solvent and recommended dismissal of receivership proceedings.

The arbiter, Charles P. Mead of Wheeling, declared a 10-day investigation of the firm's finances by 11 independent auditors and opposing counsel disclosed the association's solvency.

Mead said that since the petition, filed by a group of the association's contract holders in Pennsylvania, was "predicated upon an allegation of insolvency" he advised dismissal.

Federal Judge William E. Baker, who previously had refused to grant or dismiss the petition pending a report on finances, took no immediate action upon the 56-page summary.

The judge had announced he would use the report as the basis for further action on the petition.

S. M. Heilbron of New York, counsel for the receivership petitioners, said the report showed the company was not only solvent, but "well managed."

The petition was filed after the federal securities commission charged the 23-year-old association with fraudulent practices and obtained an injunction in a Michigan district court to prohibit the practice.

Attorneys for the petitioners charged the association had "recklessly, carelessly and wrongfully" operated its accounts.

Two Men Entombed 18 Hours Rescued From Eastern Mine

Hazleton, Pa.—(P)—Two hard coal miners, entombed 18 hours underground for 18 hours, crawled to safety today through a tunnel dug by rescue crews who worked through the night.

The men, Joseph Payne, 34 and Herman Trent, 32, walked from the shaft at Dawn, unharmed, with cheerful assurances that they "felt fine."

They were taken to a hospital, however, for observation.

Experienced rescue workers started digging immediately after the fall or rock blocked the tunnel at noon yesterday. Hard rock slowed their progress to about three feet an hour.

For a while they heard faint tapping from beyond the rock barrier. Then, after four hours, there was silence and fears were aroused that the men were dead.

Two hours before they were reached, the trapped miners' voices were heard, encouraging the rescuers.

Senate Urged To Vote Added Relief Money

Floridan Says Fund Still Would Be Inadequate For Needs

EXPECT CLOSE VOTE

Borah Declares His Canvass Shows 47 Favor or Higher Figure

Washington.—(P)—Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) told the senate today that 750,000 persons certified for work relief jobs could not get them even if congress added $150,000,000 to the proposed $25,000,000 relief appropriation.

Pepper, an administration supporter, urged that the senate vote an $875,000,000 appropriation—the sum asked by President Roosevelt.

The Floridian told the senate that the WPA "has never given employment to more than 27 per cent of the unemployed of the country who want a job and can't get a job."

As the session opened, Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) submitted a telegram from George Meany, president of the New York Federation of Labor, urging $875,000,000.

The senators advocating the $875,000,000 appropriation and those in favor of $725,000,000 agreed that the vote would be close.

Borah's Canvass
Senator Borah (R-Idaho), one of the Republicans expected to vote for an $875,000,000 allotment, told reporters he had conducted a canvass showing 47 of the senate's 98 total votes would go for the higher figure.

Before the senate debate was resumed, its committee on civil liberties recommended legislation to prevent employers from engaging professional strike breakers.

The committee, headed by Senator La Follette (P-Wis.), said it was preparing such legislation.

In the house, Majority Leader Rayburn announced that next week's program probably would include consideration of an appropriation bill for the government's independent offices and possibly a measure to permit reciprocal taxation of salaries of all government employees—federal state and municipal.

Want Quiz Resumed
A measure to re-establish a committee which investigated unemployment was introduced today.

Government Calls 80,000 Young Men for Military Service

Rome.—(P)—A wildly cheering fascist crowd tonight raised shouts of "Tunisia!" in response to a speech in which Premier Mussolini acclaimed the Spanish insurgent conquest of Barcelona with the aid of Italian troops.

Referring to the Spanish government slogan, "No Pasaran!"—"They shall not pass!"—Mussolini said: "We have passed and I say to you that we will pass!"

A crowd estimated at 50,000 clamored for Il Duce until he appeared on the balcony of his Palazzo Venezia.

He described the capture of Spain's largest city as a "splendid victory" and called it "another chapter in the new Europe we are creating."

Paris.—(P)—Premier Daladier announced today that France and Britain had agreed to take "the necessary steps" to meet an Italian threat if the fascist forces failed to leave Spain at the close of the civil war.

The premier declared precautions already had been taken to protect French and British lines of communications in the Mediterranean, where warships of the two powers now are on training cruises.

Previously Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet had given Italy a solemn warning to keep hands off the French colonial empire. The French leaders' declarations coincided with receipt of news of the fall of Barcelona to Spanish insurgent and Italian troops, not far from France's southern border.

"France cannot permit anyone to touch the empire she founded with her blood," Bonnet declared in the crowded, cheering "chamber" of deputies.

His speech concluded two weeks of foreign affairs debate just after the government called 80,000 young men, six months ahead of schedule, for service during the coming months when Italy's demands for a share in the French empire are expected to reach a climax.

The foreign minister also delivered this indirect warning to the

5 Coast Guardsmen Fight Lake Huron Ice in Small Boat

Cheboygan, Mich.—(P)—Five coast guards missing since Tuesday morning walked into Cheboygan today and told how a night of desperate effort to protect their motor-powered lifeboat averted disaster in ice-choked Lake Huron.

Chief Boatwain's Mate Charles Bontekoe said they walked two miles to shore last night and hiked 20 miles, part of the way through waist-deep snow, to reach this city.

He said the boat's motor failed late Tuesday and the men, drenched by spray, spent that night chopping ice from the boat to prevent its sinking among grinding ice cakes in sub-zero weather.

The men had set out from Bois Blanc island to search for three fishermen missing on an ice floe. The fishermen later reached Drummond Island safely.

Warrman, carried into circuit court by two deputies, pleaded guilty late yesterday and sentence was imposed by Judge E. W. Crosby.

Federal Appeals Court Affirms Modified Injunction Granted to CIO in Controversy With Hague

Philadelphia.—(P)—Overruling objections by Mayor Frank Hague, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed today with certain modifications a district court injunction granting the CIO equal meeting rights with other organizations in Jersey City, N. J.

Judge J. Warren Davis dissented in some details from the decision, filed by Judge John Biggs and concurred in by the third judge, Albert B. Maris.

The court, upholding the injunction by Judge William Clark, then a member of the district court and now of the circuit court of appeals, said:

"In our opinion, however, paragraph four of the decree by Judge Clark requires modification in that it enjoins the appellants (Jersey City officials) from enforcing the prohibitive policy of forbidding the

Experts Think Guerilla Activities to be Launched in Spain

Washington.—(P)—Diplomats and military experts here who believe the Spanish government forces cannot hold out much longer expressed belief today an end of the civil war would be followed by a long period of disorder and bloodshed.

Guerilla warfare, they said, might continue indefinitely in some sections after General Franco's advancing troops have subjugated government territory.

But the Spanish embassy in Washington indicated supporters of the republic were by no means ready to give up. In a statement last night it said:

"The Spanish people will not surrender, just as they have not rendered before when there has been a foreign invasion."

Members of the Spanish government said only last week that rich, industrial Catalonia, backbone of the republic's defense, would be subjugated when the last soldier, backed up against the French border and the Mediterranean, is killed as he raises his rifle for a final shot.

Resolution Asks Higher Tariff on Dairy Products

Assemblyman Says Farmers Abroad Taking Away U. S. Market

Madison—(P)—Assemblyman Norris J. Kollman, (R), Galesville, introduced a resolution today asking congress to raise the tariff on dairy imports.

The resolution said it was "evident that farmers in other countries are taking away the market of the American dairy farmer. It called the present tariff on dairy products "ineffective."

Bills introduced in the assembly included measures calling for a ban on the sale of prison-made products, aid to high and junior high schools installing manual training, vocational agriculture, and home economics departments, and reductions in indemnities paid for cattle condemned for tuberculosis or Bang's disease.

Submitted by Charles F. Westphal, (R), Milwaukee, the prison bill prohibits the public sale of convict-manufactured goods. The bill allows the sale of goods to state and county institutions and permits the general sale of binder twine for five years. After that time the twine may not be sold to the public.

Laurie E. Carlson, (P), Bayfield, introduced the bill which would appropriate $150,000 annually to aid the establishment of vocational training in senior and junior high schools. The state would grant $250 for each department a high school establishes, and $300 for the departments in junior high schools. No school would be given aid for more than three departments.

Would Cut Indemnities
William H. Barnes, (P), New Lisbon, offered the bill reducing indemnities of infected cattle from $75 to $50 for registered and from $30 to $25 for unregistered animals.

Other bills introduced
By Westphal: Allows municipalities to issue bonds for swimming pools and provides that the bonds may be retired from funds derived from the operations of the pools.

By John E. Youngs, (R), Oconto: Prohibits the conservation commission and counties from closing fire lanes during the deer hunting season.

By Nicholas J. Bichler, (D), of Belgium: Requires licensing of minnow and bait dealers.

By B. M. Engstrom, (R), Beloit: Provides that insurance companies may not limit or restrict the number of companies an agent represents.

By Arthur J. Balzer, (D), West Allis: Adds pool operators and "bookies" to what the statutes now consider public nuisances and permits a district attorney or citizens to start an action in circuit court to end the nuisances. Requires the operator to post a $1,000 bond as a guarantee that the nuisance will be abated and the equipment destroyed.

Alonia may not be reduced in a month or even a week.

General Franco then is expected to turn swiftly to the attack on Valencia, the last of the terminal of the line to Madrid. With capture of Barcelona, Franco has a new set of key railroad lines and steamer terminals that will greatly facilitate his attack on the battered Valencia port, without which Madrid would go into a siege.

With subjugation of Catalonia, republican Spain would consist of all or most of nine provinces, embracing a population of about 7,000,000 persons or less, as against more than twice that number in insurgent Spain.

In diplomatic circles here discussion has begun of the American attitude toward a Franco government, when the civil war formally ends.

Many observers believe if Franco swept on to a quick victory in all of Spain, the United States would withdraw its diplomatic officers from the present government area, but would continue consular representation.

Dean of Girls Talks On Successful Living

Miss Mary Baker, dean of girls at Appleton High school, discussed the attributes necessary for successful living before members of home room 234 Wednesday afternoon during the guidance period. Miss Baker, head of the social science department, is adviser to the group. The four qualities necessary for a purposeful life, Miss Baker said, are ability, reliability, endurance and action. She illustrated her talk by relating experiences from her own work.

rifles aloft, crying "long live Spain!" "Long live Spanish Catalonia!"

They marched down the Pasco de Colon, one of the main streets, and through the Calle de Cortes. Many of the welcoming throng, insurgents said, were weeping as they rushed out to embrace the soldiers. Food trucks were brought immediately into the city and began distributing provisions.

Three picked columns of troops which have seen some of the savage fighting of the war—with Moroccan legionnaires, the Navarrese army corps and an Italian "Arrow" division—were given the honor of leading the entry into Barcelona.

Two of its major strongholds, the gray stone fortress of Montjuich on coastal heights in the southern quarter of the city and the bare steep 1,745-foot peak of Tibidabo, rising on the western outskirts, fell before the entry began.

Insurgent advisers said that Montjuich and Tibidabo, where a United States consular office had been situated, were taken after a brief attack. It was indicated there was only slight resistance at those points.

Defenders Leave
Their fall was the signal for the start of the march into the heart of Barcelona.

The Plaza de Catalunya, central square of Barcelona, and its most important buildings, such as the telephone building, had long been barricaded behind sandbags, but most of the government defenders had been evacuated to the north.

Insurgent reports said the occupation should be completed by nightfall and the city formally proclaimed under Generalissimo Franco's rule.

Franco's high command had mapped out a plan for the methodical occupation of the city after driving out its armed defenders and reducing its civilian population to submission with bombs and shells.

Ministries of the republican government had fled to northern Gerona province, near the French border, where they were spread through several towns.

The government's supporters, however, insisted the war would continue both there and in the central zone, where the government still holds Madrid and Valencia.

Truckloads of provisions rumbled up behind the Barcelona army of occupation to bring relief to the population after months of privation inflicted by the insurgent air and sea blockade of the capital.

Supply Lines Broken
In the last turbulent days, especially since insurgent troops reached the outskirts on Jan. 24, the city's supply lines were reported to have failed completely, leaving a half starved population.

A great part of the city's inhabitants appeared to have remained stoically to await the arrival of the conquerors.

However, well to the northeast, columns of refugees fleeing the insurgent conquest swarmed toward the French frontier along the road hugging the Mediterranean coast, the last avenue open to traffic.

Even that route was under the bombs of the insurgent air force. Franco was understood to be sentation at the five points where it now exists.

As order was restored and a Franco government established, they believe the United States would watch developments to see if they justified its early recognition.

JUDGE A. N. WHITING

Candidate for CIRCUIT JUDGE

I have had fifteen years experience in the trial of cases that normally should be tried in circuit court. As County Judge I now try circuit court cases, handle all county court matters and am Supervisor of Old Age, Mothers' and Blind Pensions in Langlade County. Unless the County Judge of Langlade County is relieved of the trial of most of these circuit court cases, the county will undoubtedly be required to hire a Supervisor of Pensions at an expense of not less than $1800.00 per year. It is understood that the larger portion of the circuit court work of this circuit should be in Outagamie County. If elected I will wish to live where the work is and spend as much time as possible with Mrs. Whiting and my sons. I will want my sons to be educated at Lawrence College. I will therefore live at Appleton, Wis., if I am elected. You may wish to go into court to seek redress or you may be summoned into court to defend your rights. You are interested in the selection of the Judge to preside at your trial. All I ask is that you investigate the qualifications of the candidates, so that you will be informed and can vote advisedly. Respectfully submitted, JUDGE A. N. WHITING

LABOR DEPARTMENT OFFICIAL MAY FACE PROBE

A resolution directing the judiciary committee in the House of Representatives to investigate the official conduct of Frances Perkins (center), secretary of labor, was introduced by Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, (R), D. Reilly (right), labor department solicitor.

planning to move his capital to Barcelona, Spain's greatest city, from the smaller city of Burgos, which has been his base.

In the fastnesses of the mountainous northeastern corner of Spain, just across the frontier from sympathetic France, government Premier Juan Negrin and his ministers were reported intending to open up new defensive operations along a hastily thrown up line.

Earlier today insurgent dispatches said that Franco's columns, having virtually encircled the flaming, war-scarred city, were waiting at Barcelona's gates for orders to move in. It was not clear then whether the entry would be a triumphal march or an advance through bitterly contested streets.

Drive Began Dec. 23
To gain Barcelona, Insurgent Generalissimo Franco set his war machine in motion Dec. 23 for a tremendous drive designed to finish the civil war.

Massed insurgent troops reinforced by Moorish and Italian legionnaires started their thrust to the Mediterranean from positions about 80 miles inland—a drive that swept forward relentlessly into Barcelona.

Exactly a month after thundering insurgent guns commenced the drive the insurgents had captured 15,000 square miles of territory, occupied 500 government towns and taken 60,000 prisoners.

First the insurgent foothold on the Mediterranean was broadened Jan. 13 when Tortosa fell. Two days later Tarragona was captured, giving Franco control of Tarragona province, just south of Barcelona.

Early on Jan. 22 the insurgents emerged victorious from a three-day battle for Igualada, 30 miles west of Barcelona, and in short order the city's main defenses gave way before overwhelmingly superior equipment. The government mobilized Barcelona's entire population for military and civilian defense, declared martial law and threw up fortifications in the city for a house-to-house defense while government ministries fled north to Gerona province.

Surround City
On Jan. 25 an insurgent column from the south first penetrated the stricken city, and in the subsequent hours insurgent troops drew a complete circle of steel around Barcelona and fought inch by inch to invest their conquered prize.

When the army-inspired revolt broke out July 18, 1936, bringing civil war to Spain, Barcelona rallied quickly to support of the Madrid government after putting down outbreaks in Catalonia territory. Then almost two years of fighting passed before insurgent battle forces directly threatened Catalonia.

Barcelona became the capital of government Spain Oct. 28, 1937, when the seat was transferred from Valencia, whither it had moved Nov. 7, 1936, as insurgent armies laid unsuccessful siege to Madrid.

Barcelona is Spain's largest and most important commercial-industrial city, with its normal population of 1,300,000 swollen by refugees to more than 1,500,000. It has been a powerful western Mediterranean port since Roman times, rich in history, cultural treasures and material wealth.

With its great manufacturing plants and natural resources Barcelona's territory was able to create war industries which supplied the government with invaluable munitions and other war supplies.

The industrial revolution of the early nineteenth century brought heavy industrialization of the Barcelona region until today it possesses extensive textile, railway equipment and other manufacturing plants.

From its highly developed port, which harbors ships of all nations, exports of wine, olive oil, silk, cork and cotton goods have poured forth to the world.

Important factor in assuring Barcelona's loyalty to the Madrid government was the fact that independence-loving Catalonians had been granted a semi-autonomous government by the Spanish republic to still extremist agitation there for a separate Catalan nation.

Women 'Shock Troops' Open Bread Lines in Barcelona

Zaragoza, Spain --(P)—Hundreds of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's women "shock troops," many of them daughters of Spanish grandees, awaited orders today to enter Barcelona and set up soup kitchens and bread lines.

Members of "Beneficencia de Guerra," these women were picked and trained with extreme care.

They knew the exact address where they were to set up food stations after the expected fall of Barcelona and precisely how much food they were to take with them.

Huge food stores have been collected for months and earmarked for Barcelona. Even last fall shop owners were complaining they could get no canned goods because they were being saved "for Barcelona."

The women were instructed that when they entered the Catalan capital they were to hand out packages containing bread, chocolate and canned meat or fish.

Meanwhile Auxilio Social, the regular social aid organization operating in the wake of the women shock troops, prepared to open free restaurants. For a time all comers will be served, then only the helpless and homeless.

The insurgents planned for mass torry, cultural treasures and material wealth.

to be said early in the occupation—perhaps in the open air.

A grimmer aspect was expected to be the inevitable roundup of the politically suspect. Special tribunals were prepared to deal with these.

A giant "blacklist" card index has been compiled by insurgent judicial authorities said to contain more than 2 million names. The index is said to list all the most active anti-Franco persons in government territory.

Senate Urged to Vote Added Relief

American activities will be "taken up as soon as convenient" in the rules committee, Rayburn said. The question of taxing government salaries and securities was considered by the house ways and means committee. Undersecretary John W. Hanes of the treasury, testifying, said removal of present tax exemptions, as suggested by President Roosevelt, was a "simple proposal to correct obvious injustices."

Another house committee, naval affairs, was told by Rear Admiral Arthur J. Heppburn that this country's position in the Far East would be rendered "stable" by establishment of a strong advanced fleet base on the Pacific islands of Guam.

Before resumption of debate on the relief bill, Senator Adams (D-Colo.) hinted that some of his colleagues were using filibuster tactics to gain time for lining up votes on the relief bill, but the suggestion met prompt denial.

Cruiser Carries Embassy Staff to Port in France

22 Other Refugees Taken Out of Spain by U. S. Destroyer

Marseille, France—(P)—The cruiser Omaha, flagship of the United States Mediterranean squadron, reached Marseille today bringing the United States embassy staff from the Barcelona battle zone.

The only refugees aboard the 16-year-old warship besides the six embassy officials were two executives of the Spanish telephone company.

The United States destroyer Badger arrived last night with 22 refugees from Spain considered entitled to American protection.

All United States citizens now have been evacuated from the Catalan danger zone except those who elected to stay behind because of duties.

Besides the telephone company officials the Americans brought to France by the Omaha were Walter C. Thurston, American charge d'affaires; Captain Francis Cogswell, naval attaché; Colonel Henry B. Cheadle, military attaché; P. V. Palmer, embassy secretary; Charles Gilbert, vice consul; and William Krieger, clerk.

Thurston said he expected to take the staff to Perpignan, on the French-Spanish border, where temporary headquarters would be established.

Refugees Board Ship
Both the Omaha and the Badger took on refugees at the little village of Caldetas, 20 miles northeast of Barcelona, where they got their final taste of insurgent aerial bombardments yesterday as they prepared to leave Spain.

The Omaha sailed at 8:35 last night with all portholes darkened. Sailors vigilantly scanned the starlit sky for raiding planes, while down below the refugees relaxed after their frightening motor-boat trip from the beach to the ship, two miles off-shore.

Krieger seated at the plain but plentiful lunch dinner table, exclaimed: "This is like heaven. It is the first real meal we have had in a long time."

The refugees were unanimous in their description of the Barcelona situation as one of disorder rather than panic. They said the majority of the people left in the former government capital were awaiting passively the expected entry of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops.

Would Raise Hunting License Fees to Provide for Public Hunting and Fishing Grounds

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Madison — A conservation program designed to expand the already gigantic efforts to conserve and to replenish Wisconsin's natural resources has been drafted and is now ready for submission to the state legislature by the state conservation department and affiliated groups of Wisconsin sportsmen. It was announced today.

While the question of conservation is not as exciting as some of the other matters treated in Wisconsin's legislative halls, it holds a tremendous interest for thousands of sportsmen and other thousands of civic-minded citizens who are working in clubs and federations of many kinds.

Foremost of the organizations which will face the legislature with a series of legislative suggestions is the Wisconsin Conservation congress, made up of county advisory committees of sportsmen who consult with the state conservation commission in fish and game regulations and policies.

Public Hunting Grounds
Most significant of the six point program proposed by that organization is a proposal to set up a series of public hunting and fishing grounds throughout Wisconsin, the cost of which would be borne by an increase in the resident hunting license to $2.

A bill embodying a definite plan for the acquisition of public hunting and fishing grounds has already been drafted and will be presented to the 1939 legislature, according to official announcement here.

"The longer a program of this kind is delayed, the greater will be the ultimate price which will have to be paid to arrange and perpetuate such a system," according to H. W. McKenzie, director of the conservation department.

McKenzie points out that the number of licensed hunters in Wisconsin has grown from 100,000 to 225,000 in Wisconsin in the last 30 years, but that the available hunting grounds have diminished constantly. "The only manner in which a public hunting grounds can be successfully consummated for the state is through the acquisition of suitable lands on a long-time lease plan."

A leasing rather than a purchase program would be advisable, McKenzie believes, in areas of the state where much land has been removed from the tax rolls and the remaining property owners are burdened by high taxes. In such areas long-term contracts would be entered into with owners at rates which would help the land-owner to pay his taxes.

Employment of at least 25 public hunting grounds supervisors would be necessary, and they could act as game managers as well as patrolmen for the areas, McKenzie said.

Public fishing grounds would be a part of the program because large acreages of lands included in the system would border fishing waters, the conservation department chief added.

The first draft of the bill which would set up the machinery for this program provides that the fee for a hunting license be $2 and that one half of that sum be used exclusively for the hunting grounds plan. It is estimated that a proper program would entail the acquisition of more than 500,000 acres of land.

General License

It has been pointed out that the conservation congress has approved the plan. Since that time, according to a recent statement from the council, "the executive council has been pushing vigorously in favor of the program."

Other important points in the congress' legislative program include:

1. General fishing license. A measure requiring that all persons over the age of 18 who desire to fish in the inland waters of Wisconsin buy a license at $1. (Assemblyman Julius Spearbreaker of Clintonville has also incorporated this in one of his own bills.)

2. Modification of fines. To provide for the amelioration of fines imposed for minor and technical violations of the fish and game laws and a stiffer penalty for violations of the deer law, probably a minimum penalty of $50 and thirty days in jail or both for each animal involved. (It was pointed out that under present law the penalty may be the same for a violation involving one deer or a dozen.)

3. Licensing minnow dealers. A graduated fee according to the amount of business done by the dealer, ranging from $100 for those doing a business of $5,000 or more to $1 for those whose business amounts to $200 or less per year. (Assemblyman Carl Peik of Calumet county is also sponsoring a minnow licensing law, but with more moderate fees.)

Tree License

4. Christmas tree regulation. A measure to supervise and regulate the Christmas tree industry by requiring that a tag, for which the fee will be five cents, be placed upon every specimen offered for sale within the state. Such regulation, it is hoped, will prevent useless destruction of trees and encourage home industry.

5. Slash disposal. An improvement and restatement of the present slash disposal law, which is now supposed to be too ambiguous for strict enforcement.

There will be other legislative proposals on conservation matters dumped into the laps of assemblymen and senators this winter. The Wisconsin wild-life federation, an organization combining dozens of private conservation organizations, has established headquarters in Madison for the legislative session, while the conservation group of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs has also formulated a program.

Mrs. A. J. Branstad, chairman of the federation's conservation group, this week announced that Mrs. Len Russell of Crandon has been chosen chairman of the Eighth district group, which includes the Appleton area.

Outagamie Among Leading Counties In Giving Service

Per Capita Cost of Government Is Much Lower Than Average

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Outagamie county is situated even more favorably than many other counties in the more prosperous region of Wisconsin in the cost of its local governmental services on the basis of population, a study by the state planning board revealed today.

While the richer southern and eastern counties on the whole report an average of 2.8 miles of local rural roads for every 10 farms within their boundaries, and 1.54 rural schools for every 100 pupils, Outagamie county has only two miles of such local roads for every 10 farms, and only 1.22 rural schools for every 100 rural pupils, it was disclosed.

The study was made as a part of a survey to determine the per capita cost of local governmental services in three groups of Wisconsin counties, the wealthiest, the intermediate group, including some of the northern and central group, and the poorest, mostly the northern cut-over fringe of the state. It was found that local governmental services vary in cost in almost direct ratio to the number of rural residents, the heavily populated counties reporting the lowest cost per capita.

Only Winnebago county among Outagamie county's neighbors in the wealthier group bettered Outagamie county's showing, reporting highways at only 1.3 miles per 10 farms.

Outagamie county has 782 miles of local rural roads and its 129 rural schools serve 10,568 rural pupils, it was shown.

How local governmental costs vary between the state economic districts can be shown by the following figures, beginning in the intermediate group of counties. Typical counties are chosen. In this group as a whole there is an average of three miles of rural road to every 10 farms, and 1.75 rural schools per 100 pupils.

Roads	Schools
Door	2.8
Marquette	4.2
Shawano	2.8
Waupaca	2.7
Dunn	2.8
Marathon	3.1

In the poorest economic group, in the thinly settled, cut-over or poor soil counties, the ratio of governmental services to population is even higher, with 3.9 miles of road to every 10 farms, and 1.74 rural schools for every 100 pupils.

Plan First Aid Course at School

Classes to be Opened Next Monday Evening at Little Chute

Little Chute — A first aid and safety course for men and women will be conducted by John P. Van Mun, American Red Cross instructor, in this village under the auspices of the Outagamie county chapter of the American Red Cross. The course will be open to everyone of the village and also the neighboring towns and will be held at the Little Chute public grade school from 7 to 9 o'clock Monday evenings, starting Jan. 30.

The course of instruction will include dressing and bandages, wounds, shock, artificial respiration, injuries due to heat and cold, unconsciousness, common emergencies and transportation. Upon completion of the course which will be about thirteen weeks a standard layman's first aid certificate will be awarded. If a sufficient number of persons enroll more than one class will be organized.

The condition of Harry Vander Wust who was seriously injured about a week ago while at work at the Combined Locks mill is regarded slightly improved. He suffered a skull fracture and also an injury to his hip and is expected to be confined to St. Elizabeth hospital for another six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Vander Velden entertained at a dinner at their home Sunday evening. Covers were laid for ten guests. They were: Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Jansen, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gerrits, Misses Marian and Ruth Jansen and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vander Velden.

Mrs. Henry Van Susteren entertained six friends at cards at her home Wednesday afternoon. Lunch was served. The guests were Mrs. Theodore Hartjes, Sr., Appleton; Mrs. Philip Molitor, Mrs. Stephen Sanders, Mrs. Theodore Weyenberg, Mr. Albert Vandenberg and Mrs. Albert Hartjes, Little Chute.

State Progressives Voted With GOP to Omit Building Fund

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—Wisconsin Progressives voted with the Republicans on Congressman Dirksen's amendment to omit the Census Building appropriation from the Deficiency bill.

On the final record vote, Congressman Stephen Bolles of Janesville, Congressman Bernard J. Gehrmann, Progressive, Congressman Harry W. Griswold of West Salem, Congressman Charles Hawks of Horicon, Progressive, Congressman Merlin Hull of Black River Falls, Congressman Frank B. Keefe of Oshkosh, Congressman Reid F. Murray of Waupaca, Congressman John C. Shafer and Congressmen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jansen at Sheboygan, Monday.

gressman Lewis D. Thill of Milwaukee, all voted for the amendment.

But the ayes were defeated 194 to 170, and the final section of the Deficiency bill stands. The section would appropriate three and one half million dollars for the acquisition of land and construction of a building to house the Bureau of the Census, for which it is claimed, the Department of Commerce no longer has room. The Commerce Department building was erected in the Hoover administration at a cost of eighteen million dollars.

Troop to Build Room In Church Basement

Brilliant—Plans for building of a new scout room in the basement of St. Mary church are keeping members of Troop 46 busy these days. Measurements were taken of the basement at a recent meeting, preparatory to the beginning of actual construction. Humorous stories were presented at the last, meeting of the troop.

HAS MORE SAILORS
Belfry, Mont. — (AP) — "Biggest Little Navy Town in the U. S. A." is what the navy recruiting office calls Belfry, population 200 and a thousand miles from the sea. Seven sons of Belfry families sail with the navy. If the whole United States had an equal representation the navy would boast 4,550,000 men.

The recruiting office at Helena has just been notified this is the greatest representation of any town in the United States.

FARM PEST CONTROL

Senators LaFollette and Wiley of Wisconsin have joined with the senators from Minnesota, Wyoming, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Montana and Colorado to introduce an amendment to insure the appropriation of $6,000,000 to be spent in the control of grasshoppers and Mormon crickets. This is the amount asked by the bureau of entomology of the Department of Agriculture. The bureau of the budget cut the request to $3,400,000 and House committee on appropriations cut it further to $2,000,000. In the House Wisconsin representatives made an effort to have the appropriation restored but failed.

Arguing for the appropriation in the House, Representative Merlin Hull declared that the damage by grasshoppers in Wisconsin and Minnesota alone ran between $25,000,000 and $40,000,000 in 1935, and reached similar proportions again in 1937. "Losses suffered by grasshopper invasions in Wisconsin in recent years exceeded by far the amount received from the Triple A," Rep. Hull declared, and expressed the opinion that many Wisconsin farmers would prefer the fund to fight grasshoppers to the benefits of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The Wisconsin congressmen are on sound ground in seeking this type of aid from the federal government. The control of pests that damage crops in wide areas of the nation is a proper function of the Department of Agriculture, and the chance that the expenditure of $6,000,000 may save from $40,000,000 to $100,000,000 to the farmers of the nation makes it look like an investment too logical to permit successful opposition.

Serious as the matter of grasshopper control is to the farmers of the middle-west there is something humorous in the comparison of benefits between "hopper" control and AAA payments. The AAA payments are made for the reduction of crops, by the farmers, whereas the fund for the control of insects is to prevent grasshoppers and Mormon crickets from doing the AAA work without pay. It would be unjust to even hint that the AAA regards the grasshopper as an ally in crop control for the AAA has consistently and always carried on crop control on one hand and bigger and better crop promotion with the other, to the great confusion of all who have sought to find logic in the program.

It is an interesting commentary on the AAA work in Wisconsin when the representatives of this state in congress declare that an effective grasshopper control program at a cost of a few million dollars is to be preferred to the millions poured out by the federal government for crop control.

THE ARMS PROGRAM

This year's national arm-for-defense furor follows on the heels of last year's, it is pertinent to note. An even more striking example of the Roosevelt technic in securing military appropriations is furnished.

The programming gets a lot of publicity in advance, no circumstance implying danger of war overlooked. Popular "no" votes are barely audible on defense of everybody's person, family, home and community against the destructions of modern war. Then, the actual proposition turning out to be a considerable extent, at least, an anti-climax, the chances for its smooth passage through Congress become very good.

The addition supplements the "super-Navy" program, adopted last year. The larger item in the situation, by way of preparing the United States for any international jam, lies in the $300,000,000 in the regular military budget, the largest such budget in peace-time history—next fiscal year's chunk of the billion to equip the Navy with more men, more and bigger ships, more and heavier guns.

Everybody agrees adequate defense must include adequate air defense. It isn't out of proportion that 525 millions more, over three years, $210,000,000 the first year, be devoted mostly for Army air needs and nearly the whole, in one way and another, for air facilities—planes, fliers, bases, industrial readiness, a civilian force trained for military service.

Items being subject to separate scrutiny, the addition does not pan out as a thing to fly into excitement about. The point for Congress, as we see it, lies in that, as the President said, the added millions should be provided by levying special taxes. Congress has the choice of one of three courses: to enact higher taxes, to increase dangerously the Federal deficits and debt, or to make equalizing cuts in other appropriations. Proofs are amply available that the public overwhelmingly favors pursuing the last-named course.

EUROPE AT OUR MERCY

Congressman Barton's suggestion that Mr. Roosevelt pass up Quoddy and the Florida Ship Canal for something practical by way of altering the Gulf Stream to make it flow directly north to New England instead of across the Atlantic has some great possibilities.

As every boy in the sixth grade should know it is that tremendous river of water from out of the Gulf of Mexico that keeps Europe habitable. If it could be turned off Europe and Labrador would be on a par. And only those equipped for the arctic ever stay in Labrador.

Why wouldn't Mr. Roosevelt suggest the building of a gigantic concrete wall from the south point of Florida over to Cuba, with great gates so placed the Gulf Stream could be turned off and on at our choice? The distance is only about 100 miles, but little more than from Manitowoc to Michigan. The ocean is somewhat deeper than the Great Lakes but this would be a boon to the cement plants.

Then, in case Europe went to war again we would just shut off the Gulf Stream and freeze them until they cried for mercy. If they behaved themselves we would let these great waters go on their natural course, reminding Europe however that they seemed somehow to rest their title in us. And certainly without them not an olive tree could live in Spain. Nor an apple tree in Germany.

We suppose some of those critical enemies of the people like Senator Vandenberg will try to spike this nifty idea by declaring that if the Gulf Stream were not permitted to pass north of Cuba it would, by force of nature, pass south, and so on to Europe anyway. There is always some one mean enough to bring up things of this character to spoil as nice a bubble as was ever blown from a clay pipe.

But, at that, isn't the idea as practical as Quoddy or the Florida Ship Canal?

THEY WILL STAY PUT

Will the conservative Democrats follow the course suggested by President Roosevelt at the Jackson Day dinner and join the ranks of Republicanism prior to the 1940 campaign?

It is extremely doubtful. Most of the Jeffersonian partisans probably will prefer to retain the Democratic designation, trying, at the same time, to seize control from the New Dealers.

And that probability holds for the so-called "progressive" Republicans. Even the LaFollettes of Wisconsin have been talking in terms of a "third party," not in terms of a merger with the national Democracy.

The President's attempt to develop a Liberal-Conservative division comparable to that of Great Britain is destined to end in failure. The partisans of the United States are too thoroughly committed to the political setups of tradition. They prefer regularity of nomenclature even at the cost of intra-party brawls.

LEADERSHIP QUALITIES

A prominent executive recently outlined the following qualities as being those necessary for business leadership:

1. Courage and ability to tell the truth at all times.
2. Willingness to consider one's own example as carrying more influence than anything he says.
3. Giving the same consideration to the rights of others that he asks for his own.
4. Holding no grudges.
5. Dealing with tolerance.
6. Making use of all his possessions and his time in the spirit of the steward.

Such traits obviously would work for personal prestige as well as for successful accomplishment. The unselfish, truthful and considerate man is the one who invariably forges to the top in any field of endeavor.

FORGOTTEN WINE

Upon how many tables within your acquaintance is there wine at dinner? At how many restaurants within the city may the diner-out order a glass or a bottle of wine with any hope of receiving it? Who among one's circle of friends, indeed, knows one wine from another, or has a bowing acquaintance with the simplest of them?

There is a minority, to be sure, of hosts who serve the juice of the grape, of restaurants which will supply it, of connoisseurs upon the subject; they are the exception, and the rule is all the other way. Our allegiance to beer and hard liquor, to cocktails and highballs is too firmly rooted, apparently to admit the entering wedge of a preference for wine. The cry for "light wines and beer" which preceded the call for repeal might have been limited to one word, the last.

Pan American Airways officials announced in Miami that 1938 set a new record for air travel between this country and Latin America, with a total of 73,910 passengers carried.

The Western States have shown a 390 per cent increase in the number of milk cows since the 1870's, while the North Atlantic States have shown only a five per cent increase.

Mrs. Ethel Wilson was awarded $224 damages at Narrandera, Aust., after suing a hairdressing salon. She alleged a piece of her ear was burned off with a permanent wave.

Cocoon Grove, Fla., was settled long before Miami, of which it is now a suburb.

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

New York—Perhaps Mr. Harry Hopkins, the Secretary of Commerce, does not know that his picture still hangs proudly in the headquarters of WPA here on Columbus Avenue. Perhaps Mr. Hopkins doesn't even care.

For a few minutes, the situation was critical. Mr. Hopkins' photograph actually was taken down from the wall and was well on its way to the Happy Hunting Ground of abandoned art. In its place went an elegant picture of Col. Harrington, who has succeeded Mr. Hopkins as head of WPA.

I don't recall what I was doing at WPA headquarters. Most likely I was just dropping in to get out of the rain.

The WPA people, patriots all, had placed large pictures of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hopkins on the wall in gratitude for the jobs which the President and the then head of the WPA had provided. That was the situation when I barged in.

I stood, merely idling. Nobody paid me heed. An idle man (I said to myself) is no novelty. After awhile I observed quite a dither among some of the employees. They were standing in front of Mr. Hopkins' picture and gesticulating. "He ain't head of the WPA no more," said one gentleman. "He's been made Secretary of Commerce. The new head of WPA is Col. Harrington."

"That's right," said a little fellow, nodding violent agreement. Hollywood has no corner on yes-men.

"So I've been thinking," continued the first fellow, "that we ought to take Hopkins down and put Harrington—Colonel Harrington—up. Then we'd have the President on one side and the head of the WPA on the other."

"What would we do with Mr. Hopkins?" inquired a mouselike woman who wore glasses. "I do not see how that figure fits into the situation," said the first speaker. "While Mr. Hopkins was Chief we had his picture hanging there. Now he ain't Chief any more, so we replace him. I see nothing complicated about it."

It sounded reasonable. Someone summoned a WPA photographer and he rushed away to make a fitting enlargement of Col. Harrington. He was back shortly, and the picture was placed in the frame which up to that time had set off Mr. Hopkins.

The proceedings had been watched with considerable misgivings by an office boy. Day after day, seeing the picture, he had come to prize Mr. Hopkins' benign countenance very much.

While the proud WPA workers were busily rearranging things, the boy approached them and said: "Don't you guys think you'd oughta ask somebody before you take Mr. Hopkins down? After all, somebody must've put him up, and they oughta be the ones to take him down."

"That's the trouble with this country," said the first man. "There isn't enough initiative. Why should we bother the boss about a thing like this? He handles Big Things. We're just relieving him of a trifling detail. Col. Harrington is our new Chief, so we're putting him up."

The office boy wasn't so sure. He slipped away and into the office of the Boss, and he told him excitedly that they were taking down Mr. Hopkins.

"Who authorized such a thing?" thundered the Boss.

"They just decided it was the right thing to do," stammered the lad. "They called it a trifling detail."

"Imbeciles!" roared the Boss. He may not have said exactly imbecile, but it was along that line.

He dashed out. There was Colonel Harrington's calm countenance looking placidly down from the frame, with an admiring group of loyal WPAers proudly gazing at him.

Mr. Hopkins, frameless, was curled on the floor.

The Boss blustered the employees with a glance. "Who took Mr. Hopkins down?" he demanded. "We thought," someone said, "that on account of Mr. Hopkins isn't head of WPA any more."

"Put Mr. Hopkins back where he was!" shouted the Boss.

The men took Col. Harrington down, rescued Mr. Hopkins, replaced him in his frame, and hung him in his former place where he could look contently over at Mr. Roosevelt. I do not recall what happened to Col. Harrington.

"I told you we shouldn't've done it," said one man. "Things like that can't be done in a well, a capricious moment. What we oughta've done was taken it up with Washington."

Everybody nodded vigorous assent. I buttoned up my overcoat and went home.

More than 1,600 fowl of various kinds were in coops at the armory as the second annual show of the Fox River Poultry and Pet Stock association prepared for the opening that evening. The show was considered the largest north of Chicago.

S. N. Fish, L. Wichman, August Gerlach, E. H. Healy, Henry Guckenberg, Michael Gehin and R. H. Herman were to go to Neenah that night to attend the smoker and banquet to be given by the Neenah Grocers' association.

W. J. Butler had returned from Hurley, New Mexico.

Herman Franck was the champion letter thrower at the local post office while all clerks had made good scores in a recent examination. Franck had but one error in throwing 1,848 cards and threw 46 cards a minute.

A Verse for Today

RENTERS

We are all renters here. . . . We may own fields of beauty, and a dwelling whose stone walls are sheltering, but every strong wall yields when the last trumpet calls.

We are all transients here. . . . We may be proud Of what we build, and our enduring worth, But when we hear Death calling, clear and loud, We will go blindly forth.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — In times past we have thought Senator Reynolds of North Carolina (is it necessary to add that he is a Democrat?) was merely loquacious. Now it can be demonstrated that in addition to being loquacious he is versatile, if not also ambidextrous.

Grover Reynolds travels all over the world while he is not in the Senate, and when he talks he travels all over the Senate.

Page boys place glasses of water here and there about the chamber when he begins so he can lubricate his throat at leisure. He pounds desks all the way around.

Here We Go
"I am happy to be able to report," says Reynolds (we will begin right in the middle. He did). "That, insofar as I have been able to observe, there are no open saloons in North Carolina."

"Whereas in Europe they have been dispensing with barmaids and substituting bartenders for barmaids, the situation has been reversed in the United States, for here we are supplanting bartenders with barmaids."

"I hope it will not be inferred that I drink," (Laughter, says the Congressional Record.) I have indulged in drink in the past; I am not bragging about it, but I do not drink now. I have learned better."

Enough about prohibition.
"Now, Mr. President (this is Reynolds speaking), I wish to bring to the attention of this body a subject which I believe should command the attention of every member of the Senate relating to the more than 10,000,000 unemployed persons in the United States today."

It developed later that Senator Reynolds is not talking so much about unemployment per se as about the danger of immigrants, including refugees from Germany, displacing native American job holders. Already, says Senator Reynolds, there are 7,000,000 aliens illegally within our gates. He is against those here and against others coming here.

Watch Those Aliens!
Moreover, he is concerned about the displacement of labor by machinery, and he sees Brazilian cotton displacing American cotton.

One thing leads to another and Mr. Reynolds suspects aliens, especially those holding jobs in the Panama Canal Zone, are a menace to the national defense. (We must hurry.)

Germany is invading South America with her barter system, he says, but look at Mexico. "They have seized all our properties. . . . If we are going to withdraw diplomatic representation from Germany, I say we had better withdraw diplomatic representation from Mexico."

He surveys the international situation and asks why so much national unity is lacking.

"Who is going to attack us?" "I understand that the Russians are liable to attack us," replies Senator Lundeen. "They have no navy, but they are teaching their men to swim with full equipment, and they are liable to land in New York almost any day." (Laughter.)

Personal Health Talks

HEALTHFUL BEVERAGE

Please devote an entire column to buttermilk, sour milk, fermented milk, acidophilus milk, Bulgarian milk, koumiss and yogurt. Many of us are using one or another of these for colon troubles. They are said to prevent fermentation or putrefaction or to maintain a healthier bacterial growth. We believe your views will be a great help. (J. T. S.)

Koumiss does not belong in the list. It is a fermented beverage, distilled liquor, originally made from milk by the Tatars. It is intoxicating. Generally made from mares' or camels' milk.

So far as I have been able to learn there is little difference in the effects to be derived from the other lactic beverages you mention.

Use of them, any of them, as a daily food-beverage, is healthful for any one. In my opinion plain sour milk—milk allowed to stand until it sours—is as good as any of the other tancier lactic bacillus beverages for promoting or maintaining a normal predominance of lactic fermentation in the bowel. Use your own taste as to which you prefer.

After milk begins to sour, whether naturally or from sowing with a culture of lactic bacilli, any other germs which may have been present in the milk are more likely to be killed off or at least their multiplication is retarded by the acid produced by the lactic bacilli.

A similar effect occurs in the colon. Active growth and multiplication of lactic bacilli in the colon tends to discourage growth or multiplication of harmful germs, such as the specific disease germs and the germs of putrefaction.

Putrefaction is the decomposition of nitrogenous or protein matter. Fermentation is the decomposition of carbohydrate material—sugar or starch.

A certain amount of fermentation occurs constantly in the process of digestion in the intestine and is rather beneficial. Besides the desirable lactic acid, considerable gas is produced by this normal fermentation, and the gas promotes normal peristalsis and aids in the final stages of digestion.

Protein putrefaction is a constant and normal occurrence in the large intestine, but contrary to the notion of many credulous customers, there is nothing "toxic" or harmful in the products of this physiological putrefaction.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Care Of Hair
Does using olive oil on the scalp often hurt the hair in any way? (M. M.)

Answer—No. For monograph on Care of the Hair, Control of Dandruff and Falling Hair, send three stamped envelope bearing your address.

Casual Cure
Friend of mine began taking calcium and vitamin D for bad teeth and general debility, about a year ago. To her astonishment this seemed to cure her hay fever with which she had suffered for many years. (M. L. T.)

Answer—A great many victims of hay fever or asthma or both have obtained extraordinary relief from regular courses of calcium and vitamin D. For monograph on hay fever or asthma, send a three stamped envelope bearing your address.

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — With the commencement of committee hearings, the Wisconsin legislature settled down to real work this week.

The announcement of hearing schedules also meant that the law-makers are ready once more to hear the opinions of all and sundry on the hundreds of bills on which they will have to vote upon before the session ends in mid-summer. So this is an appropriate time to remind those interested in the problems of Wisconsin, in taxes, in labor, business, industry, agriculture, and all the other economic interests of the state, that the open, public hearings on bills before the legislature is probably the most important part of the legislative process.

Yet, strangely enough, the majority of the committee hearings held by the legislators every afternoon from now on will be attended mostly by professional legislative representatives—lobbyists—while private citizens, businessmen, civic leaders, and others who are vitally interested in the progress and contents of legislation stay at home.

This is true in spite of the fact that, as all persons who are familiar with legislative matters know, private citizens are welcomed cordially by the legislators, not only because they sometimes become a little tired of seeing the same professional spokesman day after day for months during the session, but because they are eager to get the reaction on legislative questions from the people at home, the people who sent them to Madison.

The average legislator doesn't presume to, and could not possibly be, qualified to judge the merits or demerits of the armloads of bills which are introduced at each session. He is no more intelligent, and no more unintelligent, than the people who elected him. The result is that he is glad to have the point of view of the public, particularly from that part of the public which is directly affected by special bills.

Legislators sometimes aren't very impressive. They make tiresome speeches, cut queer antics during their long sessions. But what they are doing is of the utmost importance to the state. A single clause or phrase in a seemingly minor bill, slipped in quietly, may mean profit or loss for a business, a job or unemployment for labor, may deeply affect agriculture, or the citizen's taxes. It's up to him to speak up.

Of course, Madison is quite a distance removed from most parts of the state, and the man who is busy making a living is limited in his opportunity to all on his representatives at the capitol. But a letter is wonderfully effective, several letters on the same subject more so, as can be seen every morning when the assemblymen and senators eagerly call for their mail.

Annual Meeting Monday to Close Y Birthday Week

Girl Reserve Recognition Ceremony Will be Held Sunday

Neenah — Two events, the Girl Reserve recognition ceremonial Sunday afternoon, and the membership dinner and annual meeting Monday evening, will culminate the tenth anniversary week activities at the Neenah-Menasha Y.W.C.A.

The Girl Reserve ceremonial emphasis will be on beauty accomplished through the ceremony, the music which will include clarinet, trombone, violin, vocal and choral music under the direction of Gladys Michaelson, and through the spoken philosophy of beauty as a poem by Kahili Gibran is read.

About 50 seventh graders will be recognized at the ceremonial to which the parents and friends of all Girl Reserves have been invited. Tea will follow the event. Mrs. N. C. Jersild will be supervisor of the tea.

20 Reserve Clubs

The Twin City Y.W.C.A. sponsors 20 Girl Reserve clubs with a membership of 375. Thirty volunteer young women act as advisers. Miss Evelyn Seedorf, associate secretary, is Girl Reserve secretary.

At the birthday dinner Monday evening Mrs. S. D. Greenwood, first president of the "Y," will lead devotions, and Mrs. J. Gillingham, one of the first board members, will be guest speaker.

Two special business affairs will mark the meeting as action is taken on revision of the "Y" constitution and candidates for the board of directors of the "Y" are chosen for the year terms.

Nine of the following candidates will be named: Miss Lorraine Abendschein, Miss Helen Babcock, Mrs. C. J. Banks, Mrs. Clarence Breidenfeld, Mrs. J. M. Donovan, Miss Nathalie De Cloux, Mrs. W. J. Dowling, Mrs. L. E. Ozzanne, Mrs. R. Roubesh, Mrs. George Sande and Miss Ruth Sawyer.

2 Neenah Events To Raise Funds in Paralysis Drive

High School Dance and E.R.A. Benefit Party Are Planned

Neenah — Although there will be no citywide President's birthday ball in Neenah this year, there will be two benefit events for the infantile paralysis fund, Dr. M. N. Pitz, county chairman, reported today.

The decision as to whether there will be a citywide celebration in Menasha hasn't been reached yet, the chairman reported. A. J. Armstrong has been appointed chairman for Menasha.

One of the two events in Neenah will be a dance sponsored by Neenah High school students Saturday night, Feb. 4, in the gymnasium. Principal John H. Holzman has appointed Gregory Smith and Susan Kimberly co-chairmen of the dance.

The other will be a benefit party by the Neenah Assembly No. 1, Equitable Reserve association, at 8 o'clock Monday evening, Jan. 30, in the E. R. A. hall.

The committee in charge of the party is composed of Audre Raiche, chairman, Jerome Berendsen, R. Gordon Pope, Mrs. George Terrio, D. W. Dunham, H. W. Hinterthuer, S. K. Seelber, C. A. Martin, Eli Walter, George Terrio, Marie Parsons, Marie Levick, W. G. Brown, Bernice Jones, Fred Abendschein, Mr. and Mrs. Merton Law and William Mathewson.

Dim Lights for Safety

Ex-Kaiser of Powerful Empire Has Only Memories at 80 Mark

CAREFREE university life behind him, First Lieutenant Crown Prince Wilhelm — he's 80 tomorrow — began the serious business of preparing for the throne. Active despite a withered arm, he hunted and took part in regular army life. Two years later, in 1881, he married — in 1888 became emperor.

AN EMPEROR 11 years, Kaiser Wilhelm at 40 was busy trying to build up German colonies and trade. He had warned, in a famous "divine right" speech, that he would "crush" any who attempted to interfere with his efforts to make greater the fatherland he considered a "heritage" from God.

STILL PROUD in bearing but with the strain of the World War evident, the Kaiser is pictured here as he fled into neutral Holland as the conflict ended. War guilt charges raged about him, but allied efforts to bring him to trial failed. Before long he became the woodchopper at Doorn.

NO LONGER DREADED, Wilhelm today lives out a quiet rose-gardening exile. As he reaches his 80th birthday January 27, a man just 30 years his junior, Adolf Hitler — rules the Reich, trying to make it even more powerful than the empire Wilhelm saw rise and fall — and arousing much the same enmity.

Mrs. Jack Kimberly Presides As St. Anne Guild Holds Tea

Neenah — Mrs. Jack Kimberly presided at the tea table in St. Thomas Episcopal church parish house Wednesday afternoon as the Guild of St. Anne entertained at afternoon tea for members and women of the church. Mrs. K. S. Sheppard, Mrs. W. Nelson and Mrs. R. G. Whaley assisted during the tea. Tentative plans for a bazaar in the spring were discussed during the short business session.

Thirty-four members of Group 2 of the Ladies society of First Congregational church attended the potluck supper and meeting Wednesday evening in the social hall. Plans for a party Wednesday, Feb. 1 and a bazaar in the spring were discussed. Seven tables of cards were in play during the social session.

Mrs. Mary Scherrie will be installing officer and Mrs. Maude Winch, installing conductress for the Neenah Women's Relief corps installation of officers this afternoon in S. A. Cook armory. Mrs. C. Larson, Mrs. Anna Kresse, Mrs. H. Bergmann and Mrs. E. C. Heuer will be color bearers and Mrs. Nellie Hutchings will be installing musician.

Neenah Instructors Conduct Discussion Of Study Motivation

Neenah — Neenah High school and Kimberly school teachers at a meeting last night at Kimberly school held a panel discussion on the "Problems of Motivation of Study."

The teachers agreed that the standards in schools have not fallen but that the students aren't working up to capacity considering the improvements in the methods and curricula in a modern school.

It was pointed out that according to the old method of instruction, emphasis was placed on the subject matter. Then the method went to the other extreme, the child centered school theory; but the present trend is to correlate both subject matter and child interest and work toward a goal to achieve a purpose. "The doctrine of hard work is consistent with the doctrine of interest," the teachers said.

Four fields of incentives were listed: Social situation such as competition, knowledge of progress, reward and punishment and purposes.

Neenah Woman Gets Estate of $15,416

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau) Oshkosh — Final judgment was made by Judge D. E. MacDonald in Winnebago county court this morning in the will of Caroline Katzenbach, Neenah. The will disposes of an estate of $15,416.52 which will go to a daughter, Mrs. Mary R. Deutsch, Eleventh street, Neenah, the sole survivor.

Mrs. Marie Ulrich and Mrs. Rose Erickson will be chairman for the public card party in the Elks hall at 7:30 Friday evening as the auxiliary to the American Legion entertains.

Catholic Women's Benevolent society, St. Mary's church, will meet at 7:30 Friday evening with Mrs. Barbara Deigler, Second street.

The Band of Trinity Lutheran church will meet at 7:30 Friday evening for weekly rehearsal. George Berger is director.

Neenah Trench Heaters Do Too Much Heating

Neenah — Coal heaters used to keep the ground from freezing on the WPA project at Seventh and London streets Wednesday night ignited the planks which lined the sides of the sewer trench as well as the canvas coverings. The fire department answered the call at 7:15. A line of hose was run to extinguish the flames. Some canvas was destroyed while some of the planks were charred, according to Fire Chief Paul Theimer.

Game scores were 841, 911 and 923 for a 2,677 total for the Gold Label team to 651, 883 and 883 for a 2,617 total for the Victor team.

Four Machines Damaged
In Neenah Traffic
Accidents

Neenah—Two persons were injured when automobiles driven by Albert Kalkoske, 417 Seventh street, Neenah, and Mrs. J. J. Cloutier, route 1, Neenah, collided at 7:45 this morning on Caroline and Van streets, Neenah police reported.

William Charlie, 125 E. Forest avenue, received a bad cut on his head and Miss Margaret Fahrkrug, Third street, suffered bruises on the right side of her body. Both were treated at a doctor's office. They were riding in the Kalkoske car.

Police were told that the Kalkoske car was traveling west on Caroline street and that the Cloutier machine was going south on Van street when the accident occurred. The front of the Cloutier car was wrecked, and the right side of the other machine was damaged extensively.

Automobiles driven by Donald Gore, route 3, Neenah, and Tom Masterson, 403 Clark street, Neenah, were damaged in a collision at 5 o'clock Wednesday night on Nicolette boulevard near N. Commercial street. The front bumper and fender of the Gore machine and the left front and rear fenders and wheel on the other machine were damaged.

The Gore machine was traveling south on Washington street, Menasha, and turning left across Nicolette boulevard and into First street while the other car was going north on N. Commercial street and turning right into Nicolette boulevard when the accident occurred.

Bill Proposes to Abolish Present
Board of Regents

Advocates Nine-Member Body to be Appointed by Governor

Madison—(AP)—A bill abolishing the present 15 member board of regents for the University of Wisconsin and replacing it by a nine-member body to be appointed by Governor Heil was introduced in the senate today by Edward J. Roethke, (R), Fennimore.

The measure requires the governor to appoint within 30 days after passage, subject to senate confirmation, three members to serve until February 1941, three until February 1942, three until February 1943, three until February 1944, all terms thereafter would be six years.

The present board of regents, under attack as "LaFollette-packed" since the dismissal of Glenn Frank as president of the university, consists of 15 members each of whom represent a congressional district, four members-at-large, and the state superintendent of public instruction. No membership requirements are contained in the Roethke bill.

Senator Cornelius T. Young (D), Milwaukee, sponsored a bill changing the date of September primary elections from the third Tuesday to the second Tuesday in September. Nomination papers would have to be filed one week earlier.

Higher Rent Cost
In counties of 500,000 or more, the Young bill would raise the cost of a recount from $2 to $4 a precinct. Election notices, however, would have to be published for two consecutive weeks instead of four weeks.

Wider powers are given to the state office building commission under a bill of Senator Allen J. Busby, (P), Milwaukee. The commission would manage the state office building fund, as well as cover expenses of administration, operation, and repair.

The bill provides that sufficient rentals be charged to amortize within 20 years at 3 per cent interest the $800,000 transferred to the state office building fund from the state insurance fund, as well as cover expenses of administration, operation, and repair.

Two Cars are Damaged
In Traffic Collision

Two cars were damaged in a minor traffic collision about 10:20 last night on E. Wisconsin avenue. Henry Brouillard, route 3, Appleton, was driving west on the avenue and pulled near the curb to let off a passenger and his machine was struck by a car being driven west by Harry Reichel, 901 Boyd avenue, Kaukauna. It was reported to police.

Two persons were hurt in the accident involving cars driven by Cliff Stammer, 1741 N. Superior street, and Art R. Steiner, 508 Morrison street, Tuesday afternoon. Stammer was cut and bruised and Gilbert, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stammer, hurt an arm.

Hollywood—Settin' Around (Universal) Jackie Cooper is this studio's most promising—and most interesting—candidate for top-flight stardom. Consider his record—a child sensation at six, a box office miracle at nine, a skidding veteran at twelve, a has-been at fourteen, and a re-modelled skyrocket at seventeen. Not more than a dozen stars in Hollywood can boast as much experience before the cameras and not more than one or two players in all screen history can claim as miraculous a comeback from professional oblivion.

Two years ago, critics were chuckling at the folly of an independent, quickie outfit which signed him for a second-rate production; this year the major studios are fighting to get him on one picture loans. Jackie has seven commitments in four different studios for 1939.

Because I've always believed players who have enough personality to reach stardom keep that personality in spite of all the bad breaks Hollywood can dish out, it gives me a thrill to see Jackie Cooper zooming up to the top again. Pug-nosed, anything but handsome, and ten years older than he was when the ladies in every audience gasped, "Isn't he cute!" Jackie still has the same, indescribable "oomph" that made him the No. 1 kid star of his day. And if a human being retains his distinctive appeal while changing from a child to a near-adult, how silly it is to reason that an adult who is an idol this year can lose every vestige of appeal overnight and be a complete dud next year. Jackie Cooper is an argument in favor of all of yesterday's greats who have been ruled out.

CHATTER ABOUT UNIVERSAL IDOLS: If you want to imitate W. C. Fields' walk, try taking the heels of your shoes—that's what he does. Without Charlie McCarthy on his knee, Edgar Bergen is as serious-minded as wood or I—he needs that stick of wood to what his wit. I've been hearing Andy Devine talk for ten years—but I still can't believe it. That name, Nan Grey, his much too old-fashioned a ring for such an ultra-modern young lady as its owner. It's mighty hard to work up any shivers as Boris Karloff's screen horrors after seeing him waltzing in a dithyramb in his garden. If you're more than thirty years old, Charles Winninger reminds you of Foxy Grandpa.

On the "East Side of Heaven" set, I watched Bing Crosby and Mischa Auer play a scene with a ten-month-old baby. Mischa had most of the lines and all of the gestures and, as usual, he made the most of them. Normally, the audience would be so entertained by his clowning that the other actors would fade into the background. But for once the most dreaded scene-stealer in Hollywood played second fiddle. The baby, lying in the middle of the bed, simply waved his feet and laughed—and I don't think one reason on the sidelines had more than a casual glance for Mischa. The scene over, Bing leaned over and tapped Mischa's knee. "By the way," he prodded slyly, "were you in that scene, too?"

They were shooting a balloon sequence for "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man," with Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen in the passenger basket. W. C. Fields cut the guy ropes and the basket, operated by block and tackle, suddenly zoomed up and swayed a good twenty feet before the sound stage floor. "Not fast enough," railed the director, "Leave the basket as is, and we'll take some stills." Charlie's falsetto interrupted. "Bergen thinks I'm nervous," he shouted. "Maybe we'd better use doubles for the next take!"

This morning a ten-year-old Deanna Durbin fan from Detroit accomplished the miraculous by getting permission to visit her idol on the set. Deanna was more than gracious. She showed her visitor the set school room, signed her autograph album, gave her a piece of mint candy and answered all her questions. As you might expect the little Detroit girl in the seventh heaven of bliss, but as you might not expect, Deanna was obviously delighted too. And, to me, there was a note of wistfulness in her answer to the torrent of thanks. "I had a good time, too," she said. "You see, with my music lessons and my school work and the scenes in the picture, I almost never get a chance to talk to people."

Freddie Bartholomew, hired to play a very, very English boy in "The Spirit of Culver" used so many unconscious Americanisms that the studio hired an Oxford graduate to refit him with a British accent. After listening to Freddie's slang, the tutor was appalled. "Don't you realize how important it is to use correct English?" he demanded. Freddie looked him calmly in the eye. "And how?" he retorted. were undergoing tremendous nervous strain and conceivably could be altered after a thorough survey.

Cities List Fatalities
From other cities in the center of the Chilean agricultural regions came reports of other dead and injured and of homes destroyed.

These included: Talcahuano, 19 dead and 60 injured; Penco, 100 to 120 killed; Parral, 300 dead.

Cesar Mendilla, a shoe manufacturer who came from Concepcion by air, told the Associated Press:

"Concepcion presents a pitiful aspect. With groups of friends I visited the whole town and can say about 60 per cent of the houses are in ruins.

"A serious situation was created by lack of lights and drinking water. Carabineros and soldiers have been busy all day Wednesday removing debris to search for victims. They managed to rescue many.

The Teatro Campo club, and the Concepcion hospital, were among important buildings seriously wrecked. In the course of the day six large planes arrived with medical supplies and other material urgently needed.

Believes 2,000 Dead
"I share the belief of others that the number of dead is about 2,000."

A military train with 20 cars of tents, medical personnel and soldiers, passed through Talca early today and continued south.

The naval auxiliary unit, Araucano, left Valparaiso for Talcahuano, adjacent to Concepcion, with 150 doctors and nurses.

The government accepted the offer of the British ambassador to use the cruisers Ajax and Exeter and their personnel to transport supplies from Valparaiso to the southern quake area.

The Vatican representative to Chile, Monsignor Lombardi, departed for the region upon instructions from Pope Pius to give spiritual and material assistance.

ROOSEVELT OFFERS AID

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt has cabled President Cerda of Chile inquiring whether the United States can be of any assistance in relieving suffering caused by the earthquake in that country.

In addition, the White House announced today, the state department and Red Cross have cabled to determine whether outside relief is wanted. Officials said if any supplies were needed in a hurry they would try to find means of getting them there.

Speakers Stress
Need for Safety Program in City

Public Meeting Opens
Drive for 2nd "Deathless" Year

Need for keeping the subject of traffic safety before the public consistently and continuously was stressed in the talks by speakers at the public safety meeting sponsored by the Appleton police department last night at the Morgan school.

Speakers were Fred W. Braun, vice president and engineer of the Employers Mutual Insurance company, and West A. Burdick, safety director of the state highway commission. Thomas Davlin, chairman of the state highway department, was unable to attend the meeting because of the department's road school session at Milwaukee.

Some 200 persons attended the meeting last night despite unfavorable weather. The safety meeting of the police department climaxed a year without a traffic fatality in Appleton and marked the start of a second year of continued effort toward another unmarred safety record.

The first showing of "Handle Bar Hazards," city bicycle safety colored motion picture, to the general public was made at the meeting. The picture was filmed in Appleton last year by R. L. Swanson, Wilson Junior High school instructor, through the cooperation of the city police department, board of education and city council.

Accident Responsibility

"A senseless machine never caused an accident. They are caused by the person behind the wheel," Braun stated in pointing out that most accidents occur at night and that about 40 per cent of traffic fatalities are pedestrians.

He urged every individual to think safety daily, reminding that "you're a long time dead." There are three factors in safety, he said, engineering, education and enforcement.

"Engineering should include a study of causes of traffic accidents with a practical solution worked out from such surveys. Spot maps, such as used by the Appleton police department, are an excellent means of finding traffic hazards. They show where most accidents occur over a certain period of time.

"Schools should be equipped with the proper materials for use in educating students in traffic safety. Parents should cooperate with the teacher and not disregard traffic rules, especially in the presence of their children.

"Enforcement should not be wholesale arresting, though arrests sometimes are necessary to educate, but should be selective, courteous and educational."

Trivial Precautions
"Overlooking what seem to be trivial precautions often results in serious and sometimes fatal traffic accidents," West A. Burdick, state safety director, said in citing a number of actual cases in the state to illustrate his point.

"Appleton has a fine safety record for 1938, but there must be no let down. Your safety program will not remain effective unless individuals are made to realize that they are important cogs in the wheel that makes the community safe.

"It has been said that out-of-state drivers are responsible for a great share of the accidents in Wisconsin. While there is a great amount of tourist traffic during the summer months in the state, surveys have shown that over 90 per cent of the accidents in the state involve persons living within a radius of 23 miles of the accident.

"Traffic safety is not confined to car driving alone. A third of the traffic fatalities last year were pedestrians, so the safety program is one that concerns every person, whether he is walking or driving."

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., introduced the speakers and complimented the police department on its safety program.

Allenville Pastor in

Pegler Rises to Defense of
The Morality of Newspapers

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The University of Notre Dame has published a series of five lectures on "The Morality of the Newspaper" given by Richard Reid of Augusta, Ga., editor of The Bulletin, a Catholic publication. They are thoughtful, interesting discussions, and newspapermen will find in them paragraphs of criticism and warning which should be taken to heart.

But, although Mr. Reid writes from experience, it seems to me that he has fallen behind the times, for he speaks of yellow journalism as though it were characteristic of the American press today, whereas it is my impression that yellow journalism has been on the wane for years and is now almost extinct. This probably calls for a definition of yellow journalism—to big a topic for a compact discussion—but Mr. Reid cites matters which may be used as points of debate.

He says that the exploiting of public enemy No. 1 and his criminal exploits created many local counterparts, many of whom made records of murder and armed robbery before their careers of crime were ended. He also quotes "the police commissioner of New York in his annual report of a recent year" as complaining that the press published exaggerated stories of lawlessness which served to attract criminals who, because of the newspaper stories, believed that they could operate with impunity.

He further objects to the writings of "sob sisters" and other journalists who seek to glorify lawbreakers, defend murderers on the score of unwritten law and attempt to blind readers to the real character of a criminal by depicting him as a home lover and kind parent.

I suggest that Mr. Reid is behind the times, because much of the press of this country has deliberately avoided the glorification of the hoodlum or public enemy for some years as a matter of editorial policy. Publication of news of the crimes of those criminals known as public enemies is another matter. The papers have no right to suppress such news, and if they were to do so might be suspected of operating with criminals or whitewashing incompetent or crooked police.

It may be remembered that St. Paul was for years notorious as a haven for criminals and that in a more recent time a high official of the federal government, commenting on the kidnappings in that region, remarked that there seemed to be something rotten in St. Paul.

Nor was it the press that invited the term, "public enemy" or the ranking system, and if for a time in the '20s newspaper treatment of crime was filippine and romantic, it must be admitted that the whole country was crazy about them and sympathetic with criminals who provided a rebellious public with liquor.

Sob Sister Becoming a Vanishing American

I would have more confidence in discussing the report of the police commissioner of New York quoted by Mr. Reid if he had named the commissioner in question. For we did have a political commissioner here in recent years who suppressed the news of crime or made difficulties for the reporters assigned to get it and constantly complained that such news was published to discredit him and the administration and encourage criminals. This was not a rare occurrence. It has happened in other cities, and it is best to let the facts speak for themselves and refuse to rely entirely on the remarks of commissioners or chiefs who may be incompetent or guilty.

The sob sister, as anyone should know who claims to be an authority, is vanishing from American journalism, and women reporters for years have resented the name and avoided the sentimental approach. Perhaps that is too broad a denial. Better say that the sob sister and the sob technique are almost extinct.

The term "unwritten law" is not a newspaper invention, and has the force of the written law in Texas and other sections of the country where morality runs high and, as for the exploitation of the private character, the chastity and piety of accused persons, Mr. Reid can be shown cases in which members of the clergy have given testimony to this effect which was entirely irrelevant to the charges on trial and unfair to the interests of the people.

Can't Be Blamed for Attack on President

"It would be interesting and perhaps alarming," Mr. Reid says, "to ascertain what part the papers played in building up the hatred which resulted in the attempted assassination of Mr. Roosevelt at Miami before his inauguration—an attempt which resulted in the death of the mayor of Chicago.

I think it would be interesting, but reassuring rather than alarming, for the man who fired the shots was insane and complained

Won't Abandon Facts
"We have stayed in constant contact with Russia and Poland.

"There must be an end to the legend that our policy has destroyed engagements we have made in eastern Europe.

"They still exist and should be carried out in the spirit in which they were contracted."

Bonnet referred to France's mutual assistance pacts with soviet Russia and Poland which have been considered widely to be non-operative since the French failure to fight for her former ally, Czechoslovakia, against Germany's successful demands for the Sudetenland last September.

The war ministry order calls up four divisions of men who normally would start training in October. The conscripts are the "war babies" born in November, 1918, plus a small number of specialists—doctors, dentists and students whose military service had been postponed previously for professional reasons.

May Enlist Aliens
Consideration is being given to another measure to compel foreigners under 30 living in France to serve in the army.

With new secret army regulations and a revision of the mobilization system, the French acknowledged they were preparing at full speed to defend the empire against all dangers.

Diplomatic quarters, officials and the press made little effort to hide concern over the calling of 60,000 Italian reserves to military service. Rome explanations that this was not an abnormal order did not dispel the anxiety here.

The French have been much concerned by Italian press clamor for a colonial adjustment in Africa. Concern has been expressed that this Italian agitation may be increased if the Spanish insurgents, whom Italy supports, finally win the civil war.

Diplomatic and national defense officials kept close contact today in many-sided conferences while awaiting latest reports from Barcelona.

Rome—(AP)—Fascists organized a demonstration for tonight in celebration of Barcelona's fall to the Spanish insurgent armies with Blackshirt legionnaires in the van.

Word circulated that Premier Mussolini probably would address the crowd from his famous Palazzo Venezia balcony.

Newspaper headlines announced Barcelona was taken, treating the news as an Italian fascist victory over bolshevism.

Harlingen, Texas—(AP)—A copy of the first issue of the Maryland Journal issued August 20, 1773, indicates George Washington could give a good sales talk.

Washington was the principal advertiser in the issue and had some "choice lands" for sale.

The advertisement, which was signed by him, emphasized the lands had a very desirable location on the Ohio or Kanawha rivers and were such that "none can exceed them in luxuriance of soil."

He also pointed out that if ever a government was established on the Ohio the value of the land would increase.

Neidholds Head Committee For Mid-Winter Frolic of Menasha Club Friday Night

D. R. and Mrs. Carl Neidhold are co-chairmen of the mid-winter frolic which will be given Friday night by the Menasha club in its club rooms at Menasha. Other Appleton persons on the committee are Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mumme, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Le Roux and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Porter. Working with them are five Neenah couples, Mr. and Mrs. F. Seaborn, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schubart, Mr. and Mrs. John Simonich, Mr. and Mrs. Ivaux Anderson and Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Candavan.

Among the parties being given before the dance is the one planned by Mr. and Mrs. William Dowling, Fifth street, Neenah. Following a custom recently inaugurated by the club, the "teen age children of the members will be given use of the dance floor from 8:30 to 10 o'clock, preceding the adult dance.

About 100 young people attended the dance given by Senior and Junior Catholic Youth Organizations of St. Mary church Wednesday evening at Columbia hall.

Tonight the Rev. Abner La Que, assistant pastor of St. Patrick church, Menasha, will speak to the seniors at a meeting at 8:15 at the hall. A social hour will follow.

Christian Mothers society of St. Mary church will give an open card party at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Columbia hall. Schafskopf and bridge will be played.

When Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles entertained 11 tables of cards at an open party last night at Eagle hall.

Court Plans Sleigh Party For Juveniles

PLANS for a sleighride party for the juvenile court of Women's Catholic Order of Foresters to be held next Monday evening were made at the meeting of the adult court last night at Catholic hall. The youngsters will meet at 7 o'clock Monday night at the corner of Walnut street and W. College avenue.

Mrs. Ervin Tornow will be chairman of an open card party to be held at 8 o'clock the evening of Feb. 8 at Catholic home, preceded by a business meeting. The activities committee will assist. Prizes at cards last night were won by Mrs. John Letter for schafskopf and Mrs. Clarence Miller and Mrs. Tornow for bridge.

Raisins, dates, currants and figs blend better with other ingredients and are improved in flavor if they are soaked 5 minutes in a little boiling water. Two table-spoons of boiling water for each half-cup of fruit is a good ratio.

NEWLYWEDS ARE GREETED WITH CAISSON RIDE

For her initiation into army life, Mrs. Douglas V. Johnson, the former Helen Jeanne Ingold, was taken on the traditional "caisson ride" upon her arrival with her husband, Captain Johnson, at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., following their marriage in Appleton Dec. 23. The couple is shown here seated on the artillery caisson on which they were taken for a tour of the post over the roughest possible route, an army tradition intended to give the bride an advance taste of the bumps she may expect as an officer's wife. The drivers of the horses which pull the caisson are usually close friends and former classmates of the bridegroom. Captain and Mrs. Johnson were met by 200 soldiers in uniform, were helped onto the caisson, and preceded by two outriders blowing bugles were taken all over the fort while officers and their wives formed lines along the way. After the ride a formal reception was given for the newlyweds by Captain Johnson's regiment. The captain is attending the Command and General Staff school at Fort Leavenworth.

Open Ticket Sale For Birthday Ball

Dance Will be Held Monday Evening at Rainbow Gardens

Tickets for Appleton's birthday ball for President Roosevelt to raise funds to fight infantile paralysis are on sale today. The dance will be held Monday evening at the Rainbow Gardens. Admission is 50 cents per couple.

The ticket committee met last night and made final arrangements for a complete canvass of the city. A number of tickets were sent through the mail to prospective purchasers.

Gustave J. Keller, chairman, explained that half the funds raised through the program will remain in Appleton to be used in the local program. The other half will be sent to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for its program that is carried on throughout the entire country.

The "March of Dimes" program also is progressing in the city. A number of workers have contributed cards and are making a drive in Appleton business establishments.

A fund has been established in the city and contains the city's share of money raised in past birthday ball programs. Money raised this year will be placed in the fund to be used at the discretion of a committee for infantile paralysis work.

Your Birthday

"AQUARIUS"

If January 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:45 a. m. to 1:45 p. m.; from 2:45 to 4:45 p. m., and from 8:45 to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m.; from 6:45 to 8:45 p. m., and from 10:45 p. m. until midnight.

The best slogan in the world for you to bear in mind this day is: "If at first you don't succeed, try and try again." Persistent effort should get results. This ought to be an excellent day for the introduction of new ideas, as well as the formulation of plans for publicity purposes. An unusual amount of shrewdness is apt to put the average seller's selling ability to a severe test. The spirit of rivalry may make competition keen in almost every line of human endeavor, so it does not matter whether it is an attempt to win social or business advantages, you will not only have to fight for, but look after your laurels. Be careful that the temptation to spend money does not lead to your making some very reckless expenditures. Married and engaged couples, and persons striving to arrive at some well-defined matrimonial decision, must not allow themselves to be "talked into" doing anything that might arouse anger this day.

If a woman and January 27 is your birthday, you may have no fear with the result that you are apt to take unnecessary risks. Perhaps you are inclined to be a bit too much of an idealist, particularly when it comes to placing confidence in comparative strangers and their statements. You, most likely prefer to command than to be commanded, so you might find it difficult to take orders from anyone. You seem to be destined to meet many worthwhile people, among them are likely to be a number of celebrities. Theatrical, radio, or moving picture contracts, newspaper work, interior decorating, selling, a musical career or painting might give you a chance to make money and become famous. Married life should have many advantages and much happiness to offer you.

The child born on January 27, usually brings an abundance of joy into the lives of those near and dear to it. Having only a few minor faults and many splendid qualities, this youngster's future should be exceedingly bright.

If a man and January 27 is your natal day, you are wise enough to know your limitations, and so, most likely, you concentrate upon the things you know how to do best. Your best chance for success is to specialize in one particular line of activity. The army, navy, aviation, journalism, educational work, acting, selling, painting, manufacturing or inventing might provide you the means of becoming wealthy and famous.

Successful People Born on January 27:

Eli Whitney, Blake, inventor.

Samuel Gompers, a president of the American Federation of Labor.

Charles F. Chickering, Manufacturer and inventor.

GET UP AT NIGHT?

A DIURETIC substance, such as Dr. Pierce's A-urine, is often indicated and usually it is sufficient to relieve minor urinary irregularities. Dr. Pierce's A-urine, 1019 Dore Lane, Toledo, Ohio, says: "I have tried, as much of my rest at night was lost from frequent rising. A-urine was all I found necessary to take to relieve the matter. Buy Dr. Pierce's A-urine at any drug store."

American Indian Lore

By Phoebe Jewell Nichols

He had strong white teeth, straight legs and a straight back, and was no longer "babied."

Cold Water Dips

From the time they were a year old, Indian children had a morning dip in cold water. Sometimes the ice had to be broken for the purpose. Before they were old enough to run to get warm after this rather Spartan activity, their mothers spatted and rubbed them as they held them close to the hearth fire. Very early in life they began to have small tasks to perform. The boys of the village gathered regularly to learn from the old men how to make bows and arrows and to chip arrowheads with the bone flake; how to make various tools of stone, awls, knives, hatchets, hoes, and hammers; how to make traps and snares and fish wiers; how to make bone needles and fish hooks; how to make the dug-out canoes. (Birch bark canoes were not used much by the Menominees for they had to travel the rivers hazardous with rapids, waterfalls, and jutting rocky banks perilous to the frail bark craft.) They learned scouting, trail making, and plant and animal lore.

Girls were taught by their mothers and grandmothers. The preparation of skins for the many home and garment uses was one of the most important duties. The making of clothes and robes, or mats and bags, of birchbark, and pottery and wooden utensils had to be learned by every Indian girl, as well as how to cook. She was taught the medicine value of plants and how to prepare healing salves, teas, tonics, and antiseptic washes. Mornings were devoted to this sort of "vocational training" in the Indian villages. In the afternoons, games were played in which all boys and girls joined together. Too, Indian children had their pets, a tame squirrel, crow, even mice, and their playthings were copies of larger articles used by their parents. Dolls carved of wood or made of buckskin and stuffed with fiber, with painted faces and real hair, or fashioned of corn husks, were cherished possessions of the little girls. And a small bow and a set of arrows made by the grandfather as he told tales of his youth brought pride to every boy and made him anxious to take his place among the men of the tribe when he should have learned enough.

There were many ceremonies and customs which centered around the significance of names, of omens and charms, affecting the welfare of children. Some of these we shall describe in our next column.

Cradle Song

By special request we reprint in this connection "Menominee Cradle Song" from "Sunrise of the Menominees."

Ne pa(a)ko, my sleepy head, In your basswood cradle bed Downy-cushioned, gently swaying To the song the winds are playing, Homeward, whelp-poor-wills are wailing, Hear them now their sleep song singing— Sleep, little warrior, sleep.

Ne pa(a)ko, my sleepy head, The golden bees have gone to bed, Silver gray-green dragon flies Close their luminous great eyes, Wings of silken moths are still, Pine birds call you from the hill— Sleep, little warrior, sleep.

Ne pa(a)ko, my sleepy head, Tiger lily's gone to bed, Where the heron tall and stately Watches for the moon sedately, In the swamp the marsh hen droves, Near the muskrat's winter house— Sleep, little warrior, sleep.

Winds are whispering in the balsams, Singing softly in the cedars, Crooning through the glistening birches— Sleep, little warrior, sleep.

Two Appleton Men Off Fair Trade Code Payroll

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Two Appleton men were among those dismissed from their jobs in the state fair trade practices department this week by order of Governor Hell although their names were not included in the list of the dismissals given to the press, it was ascertained today.

The men are W. E. Smith, a field man for the barber code division of the department, and an Appleton barber, and Walter P. Neichor, council for the fair trade practices department.

Melchior, who did not work full-time in the department, was assigned to the league work entailed in the administration of the state highway construction code. He is vice chairman of the Outagamie county Progressive organization, and recently transferred his law practice to Appleton from New London.

The dismissals this week were made in the interests of economy, according to the governor's announcement.

were announced today by Chairman Orlo C. Maulick. Freedom is joining with Appleton with the birthday ball at Rainbow Gardens next Monday evening. The ticket sales committee for Freedom includes Joseph H. Geenen, John Schommer and Nic Liesch, Jr.

The "March of Dimes" program opened in the village this week under the direction of the Rev. A. W. Van Dyke and En C. Schram. Mrs. Kathryn Maulick is in charge of special collections in the village.

City and Vicinity Hit by Snowfall; Skies Will Clear

Little Change in Temperature Is Expected;
18 Today

Snowplows coursed along city streets and county highways today, removing from traffic lanes the blanket of snow that descended on the city yesterday, last night and this morning.

The Associated Press reported the fall was the heaviest of the year in southern Wisconsin, with a total of six and a half inches dropping on Milwaukee.

Fair tomorrow, with little change in temperature, is the forecast for Appleton and vicinity issued today by the Milwaukee bureau. The thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 18 above at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

City plows had cleared most Appleton streets by noon today and the fleet of county equipment was nosing through drifts on state and county roadways. Thirty men were at work in the city and the snowplow was prepared for use tomorrow morning.

Highways Difficult
Highways generally were open but in poor condition for motor travel, the Milwaukee Motor club reported. The snow which fell earlier in the week had packed, making roads icy. Drifts blocked Highway 41 between Milwaukee and Oshkosh this morning, but plows were at work and highway officials expected to have it cleared by noon.

Minimum temperatures last night ranged from two above zero at Park Falls to 16 in Milwaukee. For the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 12 above at 5 o'clock this morning and the lowest one above at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant. Precipitation measured .18 of an inch.

Cold blasts from the Hudson Bay area sent temperatures plummeting to new lows for the season today in many sections of the northeast, the Associated Press reported.

40 Below in New York State
Temperatures in New York state ranged from seven above zero in the metropolitan area—lowest of the winter there—to 40 below at Philadelphia, an upstate town of 1,500 persons.

Below-zero readings were numerous throughout New England, three deaths were attributed to the weather in the New England area, two in Rhode Island and one in Massachusetts.

Pennsylvania, especially in the western section, shivered in a biting 50-mile an hour wind. "Generally clear" and temperatures dropped below freezing in some sections. Virginia reported readings in the 20's while Jacksonville, Fla., recorded 36.

Iowa and Indiana had normal temperatures; Nebraska's temperature ranged from 13 to 18. Chicago had 20. South Dakota reported "generally clear" and temperature were from 20 to 40 above.

Federal Men Hear Tall Story of How Man Reached Still

Washington—Talk about tall tales! Here's one of the problems federal tax agents reported: Relating the explanation given by a South Carolinian for sitting on a 10-gallon keg of whisky in a moonshine camp when it was raided, one agent wrote:

"He stated he had been cutting wood on the north side of the mountain and noticed smoke. Thinking that his woods might be on fire, he climbed to the top of the ridge in order to make an investigation."

"As he got to the top he slid on some wet leaves and started to slide down the other side of the mountain. When he stopped sliding he was right in the still. Naturally, being badly shaken up in the slide down the mountainside, he sat down to regain his composure."

Will Organize Cub Den In Fourth Ward Tonight

Formation of a new cub den in the Fourth ward will be the object of a meeting of parents at 7:30 this evening in McKinley Junior High school.

Lester Beaulieu has been in charge of arrangements for the meeting. T. E. Wadsworth, Cubing commissioner, and Kenneth Pinkerton will represent the council at the meeting and present the program in this division of scouting. A Cub den already has been established in the Fourth ward.

Births

Indian Guides Group Organized; Youths to Convene With Fathers

An Indian Guides group—Y. M. C. A. sponsored program for boys from nine to 12 years of age—was organized last night at a meeting at the home of K. M. Bard, 1515 W. College avenue, C. C. Bailey, Y. M. C. A. director, said today.

Fourteen boys and their fathers attended last night's meeting. Bard was elected chief and his two sons, Robert and George, assistants.

In the Indian Guides program, youths meet at the homes of members and fathers supervise the activities. Usually a father will talk on his particular hobby or the boys will study handicraft and other lore. When summer comes, activities will be extended to the outdoors. Regular meetings will be supplemented with social events and a sleighride is being planned by the group, the first organized in Appleton.

Heil Denies He Isn't Interested In Dairy Products

Governor's Office Answers Charge by Waupaca Editor

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Governor Heil's office late yesterday replied to an accusation made by John Burnham, editor of a Waupaca newspaper, that the chief executive had ignored requests for a conference to urge federal purchase of dairy products.

In a telegram sent to Burnham by William C. Maas, Heil's executive secretary, the governor denied the charge that he "is not interested in the sale of Wisconsin dairy products to the federal surplus commodities corporation."

The telegram said: "Our office was in personal touch with Wisconsin representatives in congress and the state department of agriculture and markets was working with the Surplus Commodities corporation several weeks before you requested conference with Governor Heil on the matter of purchases of Wisconsin dairy products for shipment to China and aid to non-combatants in distress."

"In view of the fact that the matter was being attended to before your entrance into the negotiations answers to your telegrams to the governor were momentarily delayed in favor of more urgent state business."

The executive office said that the Waupaca editor had circulated "Wisconsin newspapers with a lengthy story in which his chief complaint was that he could not obtain an answer to his telegrams of January 18 and 19 requesting a conference with Governor Heil on the subject of urging Wisconsin senators and congressmen to intervene in obtaining purchases of Wisconsin dairy products by the SCC."

DEATHS
WILLIAM CHANDLER
Word has been received here of the death of William Chandler, 68, former Appleton resident, in Tulsa, Okla., last Saturday. Burial was in Monterey, Tenn., on Monday.

SCHEDULE MEETING
The finance committee of the city council will meet at 1:30 Friday afternoon to consider current bills. It is expected the 1939 salary ordinance also will be discussed. The committee's report will be submitted to the council at 7:30 Wednesday night in city hall.

Original Wallpaper Designs On Display at High School

Original wall-paper designs, carefully drawn to scale, are on display in the third-floor art corridors of Appleton High school. They are the projects of sophomore art students working under the direction of Peter Giovannini, art instructor.

Appropriate for a recreation room is one in the currently popular Mexican motif. Gay flower pots suggest brightness and informality of a kitchen.

The influence of Walt Disney's animated cartoons is evident in the patterns designed for nurseries or play rooms. Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse play hide-and-seek on one, while Snow White in her tattered dress and the prince dominate another.

Examples of the seniors' water colors are also on display. Scenes from city slums form the subject matter of each. According to Mr. Giovannini, the students worked entirely from their imagination, attempting to master the difficult technique of water color as well as the problems of color and composition. In their next paintings the seniors will try to capture the local color of a country store.

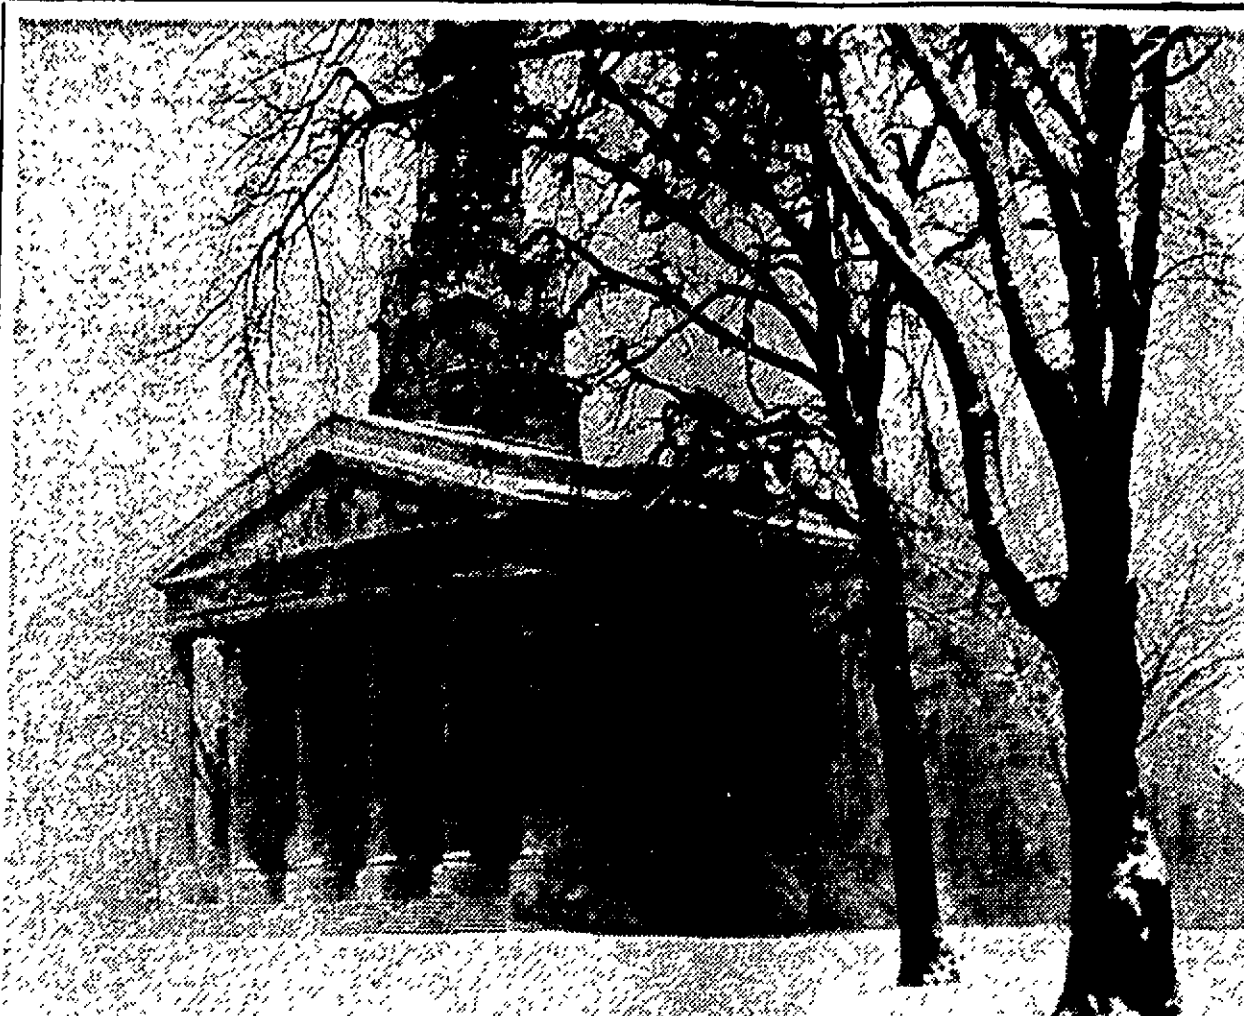

Junior art students are working on commercial designs suitable for illustrations in magazines and catalogs. The aim of this project, Giovannini points out, is to develop powers of careful draftsmanship and to learn the pencil technique. Juniors and seniors in the ceramics class are fashioning paper mache masks from plaster casts. They will soon progress to low relief work and plaster carving.

"Best Wishes for a Speedy Recovery!"
This fine old greeting with our flowers will do wonders for your sick friends!

Schedule for Buses Running On South Side Reviewed Here

Editor's note: This is the seventh of a series of stories designed to provide useful, Appleton information frequently desired at a moment's notice but not always conveniently available.

A review of the south side bus schedule, which includes Appleton, Kimberly, Little Chute, Combined Locks and Kaukauna, is presented here. The schedule is for week days and Saturdays.

The first northbound bus leaves College avenue and Oneida at 5:30 in the morning and goes as far as Little Chute. There are then buses at 6 o'clock and 6:35, leaving the same intersection, which go to the Kimberly terminal, and the second one on to Combined Locks. One leaving College avenue and Oneida at 7 o'clock goes only as far as Schaefer's Dairy.

One bound for Little Chute leaves downtown Appleton at 7:30. Beginning at 7:27 in the morning northbound buses leave Lake Road and Wilson every hour of the day and evening up to 10:27 in the evening. All these buses, however, do not make the through run. There are other buses leaving College avenue and Oneida at 7:30 in the morning, 4 o'clock, 5 o'clock and 5:45 in the afternoon.

On the southbound line, the first bus leaves Little Chute at 6 o'clock in the morning and the next departs from Kimberly at 6:20. A bus leaves Combined Locks at 7 o'clock in the morning and one departs from Kimberly at 8:03. The first bus to leave Kaukauna on this line departs at 8:03 in the morning and there are two more from that city at 4:30 in the afternoon and 6:15 at night.

Buses which start at Combined Locks on this southbound line leave at 7 o'clock and 10 o'clock in the morning, 1 o'clock in the afternoon and 10 o'clock in the evening. As the line nears Appleton, the frequency of departures increases, with a full schedule for day and evening at the Kimberly terminal.

President Scolds Reporter for His Amlie Question

Roosevelt Peeved When Asked About Appointee's Qualifications

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—The severest rebuke to a reporter ever heard by veteran correspondents was given by President Roosevelt to Frank Goodwin of Central News of America because of a question he asked about Thomas R. Amlie of Elkhorn, former Wisconsin Progressive congressman nominated to be a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Goodwin asked: "What qualifications does Mr. Amlie have for a place on the ICC?"

The President sternly inquired, in return, if the reporter didn't suppose the President would not have sent the nomination to the Senate if he had not thought Mr. Amlie was qualified.

"I did not mean to imply that he was not qualified. I merely want to know what his qualifications are," Goodwin pursued.

Then the President inquired, with equal sternness, if any body had ever heard such a question asked in press conference, if it was necessary for him to give out the life history of every man he ever nominated for office, telling everything the nominee had done and said and thought for the last twenty years. It's silly, the President concluded.

Prior to Goodwin's question, several other questions had been asked about Amlie. The first question, which opened the press conference was:

"Does Mr. Amlie take to the ICC any definite ideas on railroad rehabilitation?"

The President said that was a question that had better be asked of the Almighty. Railroad rehabilitation is the most complicated question before government and the railroad industry.

Another correspondent later asked for the "background of the Amlie appointment, particularly as to who was for him."

The President replied that he had to pick a non-Democrat.

Were Republicans barred? the reporter asked.

What, the President inquired, was Amlie, and was told he is a Progressive.

He then continued that the only political question he had asked about Amlie was whether he was a Democrat, and had been informed that he was not.

Wisconsin Republican congressmen unanimously opposed the nomination, and Congressman John C. Schaefer, Milwaukee, Republican, said he would tell Senator Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, that the President violated "the spirit if not the letter of the law" in appointing Amlie instead of a Republican, because "no one can deny that the Progressives are part of the New Deal Army."

Amlie, it was recalled, was the only Wisconsin Progressive in the House of Representatives to vote for the president's reorganization bill. Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., supported it.

So far, Amlie's appointment has not been referred to a subcommittee of the senate interstate commerce committee, nor has formal request for hearings been placed before the committee.

Sen. Warren R. Austin, Vermont Republican member of the committee, has said he would ask hearings, however.

Opposes Probate Of Lonkey Will

Hearing Opens in County Court of Judge Fred V. Heinemann

Hearing on an objection to the probate and allowance of the will of the late George H. Lonkey, Shiocton, opened in county court of Judge Fred V. Heinemann this morning and the case was adjourned until next Thursday.

The objection filed by Gladys R. Jimer, Chicago, a niece, alleged that the will was not executed in a manner provided by law, that it was procured by exercise of undue influence and that the principal was of unsound mind at the time of its making.

The petition for probate lists the estate at about $40,000. Under terms of the will two brothers, John Lonkey, Jr., and Jay R. Lonkey, Caldwell, Idaho, and a nephew, George Jones, Shiocton, each are to receive a third of the estate.

What the President inquired, with equal sternness, if any body had ever heard such a question asked in press conference, if it was necessary for him to give out the life history of every man he ever nominated for office, telling everything the nominee had done and said and thought for the last twenty years. Union Fives Win In Doubleheader

Kaukauna, Oshkosh Cage Teams Defeated at New London

New London — Two New London Union teams defeated out-of-town visiting cagers in a double-header program at Labor hall last night.

Plywood Local 2890 trimmed the Sinclair Oils of Kaukauna, 31 to 20, in the first quarter after securing all the way and trailing 15 to 13 at the half and 18 to 17 at the end of the third quarter. Pete Wendt sparked the New Londoners with five buckets and a gift shot while Ben Bessette potted four from the floor. Hamby paced the visitors with five field goals.

Making 13 goals to the visitors' four, Furniture Workers Local 1642 trimmed an Oshkosh team 31 to 17. The invaders made nine free throws off 16 fouls while the woodworkers converted five on 11 personal.

Dave Freiburger dropped five field goals to lead the New Londoners. Bob Krause getting eight points with four charity shots and two baskets.

Local 1642 will travel to Marion Friday night to play a return game with the Marion Athletic club and will go to Shiocton Sunday night to play a return game with the villagers.

Coolidge Story Among New Books

'A Puritan in Babylon'
Now Available at New London Library

New London — A new biography on Calvin Coolidge and the detailed story of his bull market era from 1921 to the crash of 1929 is contained in William Allen White's 'A Puritan in Babylon,' which heads a new volume released for circulation at the New London Public library this week.

Other general books are 'Take It Easy,' on the art of relaxation by Walter B. Pitkin; 'Manners for Millions,' a book of everyday etiquette for everyone; 'Primer of Figure Skating' on how to fit and use skates by Maribel Y. Vinson, nine times United States lady champion. 'With Malice Toward Some,' is a unique travel diary of a young professor's wife in England and Europe by Margaret Halsey; 'Count Belisarius' by Robert Graves is a historical novel designed by the author to enlighten the period of the so-called Dark Ages; 'Canoe Country' by Florence Page Jaques describes a canoe trip; 'Out of Africa,' written by Isak Dinesen tells of the life on a plantation in Kenya.

It Is Said--

That the New London street department is having a tough time with old man weather in completing the junior skating rinks at the various school grounds. Four times in the last week the department has plowed out areas at the two public and parochial schools and each time fresh snow has fallen to undo the work. Flooding has been started at each of the rinks but interrupting snowfalls has prevented their completion.

Police were notified frantically of a "hit-and-run driver victim." Chief Harry D. Macklin investigated.

"Can't you let a man take a peaceful nap where he wants to?" the transient protested as the chief rolled him out of a sound slumber at 10 degrees below zero. "I'm not cold and I'm tired."

He couldn't be cold with the bewildering amount of apparel he wore but he was tired and hungry so police took him in, gave him a warm bed over night, and after a hot breakfast sent the "body" on its way.

Cites Reason for Debate Over New Cabinet Officer

Lawrence Says It's Politics in Federal Government

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—There is something so transparently hypocritical about present-day politics that it would seem permissible to make mention of just what the debate over the confirmation of Harry L. Hopkins as secretary of commerce really means.

The Republicans, almost to a man, voted against Mr. Hopkins, and the Democrats, with few exceptions, voted for him. The question at issue was whether Mr. Hopkins' management of relief was political. There was no problem of personal integrity. It is true, many of the Democrats, in voting to confirm Mr. Hopkins, did not wish to be recorded as approving what he did in public office.

From the debate, it might be inferred, however, that the Republicans and Democrats are against politics in relief, but there is nothing to show they object to politics inside the federal government. So ingrained is the political tradition that it is doubtful whether a handful of votes could be obtained today for a bill to prohibit any member of the cabinet from being an officer or director or manager of a political party or its funds.

Farley's Offices
Thus, James A. Farley has held the office of chairman of the Democratic National committee and chairman of the New York State Democratic committee during the entire period of nearly six years that he has been postmaster general in the cabinet of the president, and there has been really no substantial objection from the leaders of either political party.

Maybe someone else wouldn't be permitted to play such a triple role, and maybe it's a tribute to the remarkable personality of Jim Farley, but the fact remains that a congress that doesn't object to an active manager of political campaigns in a president's cabinet can hardly object to the retention in public office of another man in the president's official family whose contact with politics was confined to incidental effort. Maybe, if Mr. Hopkins had been known as the vice chairman of the Democratic National committee, or had held some conspicuous office in politics openly, he never would have aroused the ire of the members of congress. Perhaps his sin was in failing to be a part-time political manager like Jim Farley.

Little Politics
But the fight now is over, and the question is whether congress is in earnest or playing a little politics of its own in the Hopkins controversy. If congress were in earnest, there would be legislation on the way to the statute books now not only prohibiting key executives in the entire federal government from engaging in political campaigns, but forbidding them to have any connection with the soliciting of delegates to any national convention of either party.

The Republicans may be loath to sponsor such legislation, for they themselves have been in the habit of considering certain cabinet posts as political and their cabinet officers have made speeches during presidential and congressional campaigns. The use of a government job to urge voters to vote a certain way was certainly not invented by the Democrats.

It is, therefore, important to record these things lest the impression be broadcast that the debate over the Hopkins appointment somehow symbolized something more than the customary holier-than-thou attitude which every now and then arises in congress, when, as a matter of fact, the opportunity to cut away the abuse and defects in our system has been plainly apparent for years.

Personal Appointments
One of the curious things that showed itself in the debate was the willingness of congress to concede that cabinet portfolios are personal appointments, and that qualifications for management of a big government department are not to be passed upon by the senate when asked to confirm a nomination. This is, to be sure, the traditional view and on its face there is no reason why congress should refuse to confirm anybody the president wants to put in his cabinet—that is, if one accepts the view that cabinet officers are political appointments. A majority of the senate feels that this is so. Whatever, therefore, the individual members of the senate may have felt about politics, they really supported the idea of politics in government when they accepted the customary contention that a cabinet officer is a part of the president's political entourage. And that's why there has not been any real objection in congress to the presence of a postmaster general who also is chairman of a national political party committee in the president's cabinet.

Politics is still the controlling influence in government, notwithstanding all the crusades of fifty years or more for a permanent civil service and a better administrative service. In Great Britain, the political nature of the cabinet officer is accepted, but he is compelled to stand before the people in an election just as are members of congress. The trouble in America is that the electorate has no way of forcing out of office an administration whose key executives or cabinet officers abuse public power. The issue in a congressional election is the individual senator or representative, and, in a presidential election, it is the president. Cabinet responsibility to the electorate, often advocated by the late President Wilson, is still a long way off in the American democracy.

Once Love Dies, It Is the Dearest Thing in the World

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—We have been married a little more than five years and have a fine 3-year-old boy. Because of our insufficient income and the need of more money I took on night work in addition to my job soon after the baby was born, without realizing that I was taking time that I should have spent with my wife. Also I am a reserved man and failed to tell my wife how much I loved her and admired her. I simply took her for granted.

DOROTHY DIX

When the baby was about 8 months old she told me that she didn't know why, but she was growing cold toward me. Later on she left me and went back to her mother, saying she had to get away and get a perspective on our marriage. Since she has been gone I have been studying up on the marriage relationship and realize that without knowing it I must have been stupidly selfish and inconsiderate. I have told her that I am aware of this and that I will be a changed man if she comes back. But she turns a deaf ear to all of my pleas to return to me.

If she decides on a divorce should I consent in the hope that a later reconciliation can be made? Or should I make a final plea for a trial reconciliation? Or should I try to persuade her to return and maintain a separate residence so that we can both see the boy and trust that time will finally bring us together? I worship my wife and boy, and life without them is not worth living.

RICHARD.

Answer:

I am sorry for you, Richard, but I think that you simply have to face the fact that your wife no longer loves you, and that you are absolutely helpless in the matter. Perhaps she is equally helpless, but the heart is an unyielding member we cannot control. We cannot bid it to do its duty and love where it should love. Nor do any of us know why we love, or why we cease to love.

It is as unexplainable as why the food we relished yesterday we loathe today. Or why pleasures we once enjoyed have palled upon us. Or why the people we thought so brilliant and interesting come to bore us.

Furthermore, when once love dies it is the dearest thing in all the world. There is nothing you can do about it except just accept the situation with what courage and philosophy you can and quit wasting your time and energy trying to blow dead ashes into flame.

Your wife left you for no reason at all except that she had just lost her taste for you. Nothing you did or left undone had anything to do with it. A woman doesn't cease to love her husband because he is working night and day to make a living for her and her child. She loves him all the more for it.

Nor does a woman fall out of love with her husband because he is not Clark Gable. Mighty few American men possess the technique of a great lover. If all wives left their husbands because they took them for granted and said it with breakfast instead of excusing the country would be filled with divorcees.

Be that as it may, however, if you are still bound and determined to get your wife back, you will have to alter your tactics. You are being too humble. You are making a demand of yourself and she can't resist giving you another kick as long as you are down. Get up and have some backbone. Tell her that you are going to divorce her for desertion and that you are going to demand the custody of the child, as you have done nothing to forfeit your right to him. That will throw a scare into her.

Don't overpersuade her to come back to you. That will bring you no happiness unless she comes of her own accord and because she wants to. It would be torture to you if you knew that she was only doing it because she thought it her duty and that she loathed you and was bored by your society. It is no good having a woman's body without her soul.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Two weeks ago we were given notes by the government to vacate the home we have been trying to pay for for fifteen years. Now my father wants to buy another home and wants to take every cent in the world we have, which only amounts to $150, for a cash payment. He barely supplies us now with the absolute necessities of life, and if he buys that house we will have to go without food, clothing, warmth and school supplies, and I will have to leave school to help earn a living. As it is, there are many days when we have

Shows Where Bidding, Play Was at Fault

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The most difficult bidding question in the examination, in my opinion, was No. 50:

Both sides vulnerable, the bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 spade Pass 3 spades Pass
4 hearts Double ?

You are South and hold:
♠ K 10 8 5 2 ♥ None ♦ K Q 6 3
♣ K Q J 5

What call do you make?
The official answer was: "South should bid five hearts. Admittedly this is a 'master bid,' but a strictly logical one."

I did not expect a great many correct answers to this question, hence was surprised when at first glance it appeared that a substantial number of examinees had selected five hearts. On closer perusal, however, I learned the surprising fact that almost all of these answers were based on the assumption that North's four heart bid was an asking bid and that a five heart response would be the conventional, first round control-showing answer. I am pleased to find that asking bids still are being extensively used, but actually they had no place in this examination. I took it for granted that readers would realize that if I wanted to pose any question based on an asking bid I would certainly state the fact. So as not to confuse the issue I used no asking bids nor any responses based on the same in the entire examination. Thus, in question 50, North's four heart bid was not a conventional asking bid and South's prescribed five heart free response could not be an answer to an asking bid. It was a rare, but logical, use of a cue bid in a partner's suit.

In the official answer I pointed out that if South really "liked" four hearts he would redouble. Hence, here was the opportunity to show a sort of negative liking for hearts which could only be considered as the ability to control the suit. North's hand might easily be such that, with this information from South, he could go to a grand slam, whereas any other bid on South's part, such as the five and six spade bids mentioned in answers sent in, would leave North in the dark about first round control. I regret to report that only about 15 per cent of the answers that reached me earned the 20 point credit assigned to a five heart bid.

The bidding:

North East South West
Pass Pass 1 club 1 heart
3 clubs Pass 5 clubs Double

I am merely reporting this bidding. I can hardly say that I approve it. North's three club bid, even after his original pass, was too strong and South (after that three club bid) should have gone into no trump rather than reach for an eleven trick contract with his 4-3-3-3 distribution. Three no trump could have been made against any opening lead except that of the heart ace, virtually a double-dummy lead. West's penalty double was not too good.

West opened the ace of hearts and, after viewing the dummy, shifted to a small spade. Declarer took the finesse, which held, and then despite West's bid and double took the trump finesse. After West won with the trump king he could lead any card in his hand outside the diamond suit and simply wait for the setting trick with his diamond queen.

Declarer should have given West his due and placed every outstanding key card in West's hand. On winning the second trick with the spade queen the spade ace should have been cashed. A low trump then should have been led. But after East followed suit declarer should have put up the ace, ignoring the finesse. The line of play from that point would be comparatively simple. The king of hearts should be cashed and South's third heart ruffed in dummy. A small diamond should be played to the ace and the third spade ruffed away. A trump lead would put West in a position where he would have the unenviable choice of leading a heart, giving declarer a ruff and a discard or a diamond up to declarer's K-J tenace.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

This simple breathing exercise will do wonders to improve your speaking voice. Described below.

If it is a man, or men, you are wanting to please take a stern inventory of your speaking habits! For there is no doubt about it, men simply adore a soft cultured voice and they simply loathe the coarse speech from the tongue of their ladies fair!

A lovely voice with smooth tones, contributes greatly to any woman's charm, and if what she has to say is expressed simply in good grammar and thoughtful phrasing, she possesses one of the greatest assets of personal allure!

Cup your hands behind your ears and talk to yourself. By so doing you may determine whether your voice tones are flat or strident or too weak. Perhaps they are pitched too low or too high—you can judge candidly if you have a mind to. For a better test seek out one of these new machines which records your voice for a quarter hour and will play it back to you from a victrola type of arrangement. And be prepared for a shock! For it will be difficult to recognize your own voice!

Slovenly speech, naturally is not condoned in this day of exquisite manners. You should avoid all questionable slang, and enunciate in clear, lilting tones. Try lifting your voice one-half pitch and read from a well-written book. There is much to the rhythm of speaking—get an interesting "swing" into your words as you do your dancing steps. The French, of course, are masters of "swing" in speech, and we would do well to imitate them to a degree. The next time you are watching a good play pay particular attention to the intonation

Build Up Health of Child Before Visiting Specialist

BY ANGELO PATRI

"My daughter, Helen, thirteen years old, is a disturbing influence in the family. She is next to the youngest of four children. The others are easy to get along with, not that they are perfect, either, but certainly they are not like Helen."

"Nothing pleases Helen. Her new dress is not as good as her sister's, although she selected it herself. She didn't get fair chance in the game although she was given the handicap she asked for, for treated generously all through. She grumbles about us all and says we never think about her feelings, only about our own, although she does not allow us to think about anything or anybody but her, so persistent is her grumbling."

"The same report comes from school. She does her work to a passing standard, and a little more. But she is very unhappy and makes everybody else miserable. She is the one dark spot in our home. Would a visit to a psychoanalyst help her?"

One visit to the specialist would do no good. He could not do more than see the surface of the child in one visit. The services of such an expert are very expensive because they must be rendered through a long period of time, as a usual thing. One essential to good results is the full cooperation of the patient, and that requires time and patient study on the expert's part. And real psychoanalysis is scarce and hard to find.

Apart from those difficulties there is this one. The human mind is a mystery even to the experts. Strange and terrible forces dwell in it and unless the analyst is expert, exceptionally skilled, exceptionally experienced, harm to the patient is more than likely to result. Every body who calls himself an expert in the field of mental health is not exactly that in practical sense. Better try to build up the physical health of such a child first, better have the family doctor, and the child specialist who have devoted their lives to the treatment of ailing children see what they can do. Add to their strength the understanding of the experienced, able teacher, and there is every possibility that this child can be helped. Unless there is mental illness, disease, treatment will soon cure the trouble. If there is such illness the psychiatrist can take charge, still aided by the doctor, the child specialist and the teacher.

NEW YEAR'S LOVE

THE CHARACTERS

Noel Marchand, a beautiful young actress.

Allan Collins, the man she loves.

David Norris, the man she is going to marry.

Yesterday: Noel insists on playing in spite of a cold. She loses her voice.

Chapter 17

HORRIBLE THOUGHTS

"Do something! Do something! Get Dr. Heaton! Clarabelle, let me have that gargle!"

Noel wrung her hands hysterically, as the rasping, whispered words came from her throat. Douglas Swannstrom looked at her helplessly for a moment and then he told her quietly:

"You can't go on, Noel—that's out of the question!" He turned to the maid, "You'd better take Miss Marchand home and telephone for the doctor." He knew out of the room in a rush. Noel knew he was summoning Rita, her understudy.

Harsh sobs broke from Noel's throat. She permitted Clarabelle to take off the white gown and help her on with her street dress. "I'm too ill to move," she protested and the maid said, "They'd better get the doctor here then." She called one of the stage hands, gave the message to be telephoned. Outside Noel's door, several of the troupe had gathered. Already the news of the leading lady's collapse had spread backstage.

"I'm sorry," Gerald said dashing in for a moment and patting her hand sympathetically.

Swannstrom was holding the curtain a few minutes while Rita got ready. The young lady, trembling, excited, passed by Noel's door as Foster went out. She hesitated for a moment:

"I'm sorry you're ill, Miss Marchand," then went into the wings to take Noel's place. You're not sorry—Noel thought—how could you be? This is the chance you've been waiting for. She couldn't blame her understudy—one had to fight for one's self in this game.

"You've got to get me fixed up for tonight," Noel pleaded with Dr. Heaton when he arrived. The physician shook his head emphatically.

special duties but it is certainly in her special interest in her job to help make the contact between you and your customers as smooth as possible. To leave a customer standing in front of your desk with nowhere to sit, it seems to me, just as rude on her part as she can possibly think it was rude on your part to ask her to demean herself by finding a chair. In other words, those who are so afraid they are going to lower their social status by showing a little kindness and consideration are not the sort of people that I myself would ever want to employ, nor the sort of employee that I myself would want to be. If the situation were on the other foot, but again, as I've already said, I've no idea of the manner in which you asked her and the fault might have been entirely yours.

Announcing Widow's Engagement?

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is forty and is marrying for the second time. She has been a widow for more than fifteen years. I disagree with her about announcing the engagement, which she wants me to do. I think she should wait and then announce that the marriage will take place, or even has taken place.

Answer: I agree with you—very certainly in the point that it would be unsuitable for you to announce her engagement as though she were a young girl. If she chooses to tell her intimate friends that she is going to be married on such and such a day, that would be appropriate. Later, if she would like to have announcements sent out of her marriage it would be quite proper that you send these since she is a widow and not a divorcee. Otherwise, merely telephoning the society editor of your newspaper that the marriage has taken place is all that would be necessary.

phatically. "You're going home to bed and stay there, until I tell you to come back," he insisted. "You've got a bad case of laryngitis and it's nothing to fool with."

Clarabelle took Noel to her hotel in a cab.

"Dr. Heaton, how long will it take?" Noel wanted to know after he patted her throat and directed Clarabelle with the bandaging.

"That depends entirely on you, Miss Marchand—we'll know more tomorrow."

The very thought of being away from the evening performance brought beads of agonized perspiration on Noel's forehead. She lay there impatiently, bawling her bad luck just when the play was going so well. She tried to relax, to do what the doctor had told her, but it was difficult.

David insisted on a nurse when he came and telephoned Dr. Heaton to have one sent right over. He was worried and helpless—feeling Noel's forehead, murmuring endearing words.

"Darling, don't worry—" "That's what everyone says," Noel interrupted, angrily. "How can I help it?" Then she remembered she mustn't talk much and lay there silently, fuming.

Lying on the bed, Noel was thinking—supposing she never got her voice back again—supposing this were a long illness? But she mustn't believe that, she had to get well quickly. She tried to put the horrible thoughts away but they persisted, like a dreaded nightmare that took in her whole future.

'Not Far Off'

The Sunday papers carried a paragraph about Noel's illness and her temporary absence from the play. Anita Swannstrom came to see her and the living-room was filled with flowers, some from people she scarcely knew.

Mrs. Marchand came into New York as soon as she heard about Noel. She was more comforting than all the others—she wouldn't let Noel talk, just sat by the bed and held her hand, made her drink the fruit juices Dr. Heaton had ordered and treated her like a sick little baby.

Noel loved this kind friend for herself. She knew, though, Mrs. Marchand was even nearer to her because she was Allan's mother.

Walking hours alone, however, gave Noel time to think of the future in a different way than ever before.

"What would happen to me if there were no more stage roles?" she said to herself several times. It had happened to other, better known actresses than she. David looked more importantly than ever.

"I could learn to love him—he's so kind and good," she said over and over, knowing full well that Allan had taken her love back to Chile. He didn't know it, thank God. And she couldn't have Allan.

By Tuesday the rasping harshness had gone out of her voice. Dr. Heaton allowed her to sit up in the living-room for the afternoon but vehemently put his foot down when she suggested going to the theater for the evening performance.

On Wednesday night, she went back to her role. Rita's brief elevation was over with the matinee show. The cast greeted Noel as though she had been away for years and the audience applauded her first entrance as though she were a famous star.

Noel loved it—being Susan again for three thrilling hours. Acting that night took more out of her than she cared to admit. David was waiting when the performance was over.

It wasn't only the physical weak-

A SECRETARY'S DUTIES

Dear Mrs. Post: There has been some controversy in my office about the duties of my secretary—or any secretary for that matter. Recently when two men came into my office I asked my secretary to get another chair as we have only one chair normally, for visitors since the office is small. I have since discovered that she resented being asked to get the chair and said that this was going too far.

Answer: I think this answer depends of course upon the manner in which you asked her. That is, if you ordered her to bring a chair, as if it were her duty in life to do so, she might have resented your manner. If you asked her in a perfectly courteous tone of voice, "Miss Smith, do you think you could find a chair for Mr. Jones?" and she resented it, I think I would get another secretary, not especially because finding chairs is listed in her

I have agreed to follow your recommendation. What should I do?"

DIAGNOSIS:

When we grow older, it is not uncommon for the normally clear lenses of our eyes to become cloudy. Ultimately we may see light but be unable to read or sew, or recognize our friends.

We stumble around in semi-blindness, or else find ourselves chained to an easy chair. There we grow more frail and helpless with each succeeding day, for inactivity is especially dangerous for elderly people.

Their muscles shrink and become weaker from disuse, which further predisposes them to falling, and also renders them more and more a slave to their rocking chair. A vicious circle is set up.

The more they sit still, the weaker they become from muscular atrophy. And the weaker they grow, the more necessary it is for them to seek an easy chair.

Dramatic Surgery

The operation to remove cataracts is one of the most dramatic in the field of surgery, and the quick change of a blind patient into a seeing person who can even thread a needle or read the fine print of a newspaper, brings exhilaration to surgeon and patient alike.

When I was an interne, I enjoyed my eye surgery as much as any operation I ever performed, and right now I want to urge every person afflicted with cataracts to have them removed.

The operation is not dangerous to life, for it is bloodless and we don't even administer a general anesthetic.

DISTINCTIVE

Money and Mints
IV--PIECES-OF-EIGHT AND EARLY DOLLARS

In old pirate tales, we read about "pieces-of-eight." Strange as it may seem, there were men-- or beings in the shape of men-- who were willing to kill people in order to steal pieces-of-eight.

I have a small collection of old money, and in it is a piece-of-eight. It's just a silver coin, with an ugly looking picture of a Spanish king of one side. It is about the size of one of our silver dollars, and is dated 1787. The pirates did most of their work before that date, but they were after silver coins of the same type.

On left side, two pieces-of-eight. Right side, front and back of a "thaler," or early dollar.

A piece-of-eight was so called because it was worth eight reals. A real was a silver coin of Spain, worth about 10 cents. Early English colonists in North America made wide use of pieces-of-eight in carrying on their trade.

The piece-of-eight came to be called a "dollar" because it was of about the same size and weight as the "thaler," a silver weight common in some parts of Europe. "Thaler" was pronounced "toller," rhyming with dollar.

The story of the dollar goes back more than four centuries. In 1316 a rich silver mine was found in a valley of Bohemia. The valley was known as "Joachim's dale."

The Count of Schlick quickly took over the mine, and inside of two years he ordered his workers to turn the silver into one-ounce coins. For a long time the coins were called by a name meaning "Joachim's valley pieces." Later the "Joachim" was left out of the name and the coins were known simply as "thalers."

The use of the thaler spread through northern Germany, and into Holland. In Holland the spelling of the coin's name was changed to "daler." Dutch colonists in New Amsterdam (early New York) played an important part in bringing the word daler, or dollar, into common use in the colonies. After the name was given to the Spanish piece-of-eight, it was applied to the main national coin of the United States.

We do not know clearly how the dollar sign happened to come into use. It may have been borrowed from the signs on one side of a piece-of-eight. Perhaps more likely it came from putting "U" and "S", the initials of the United States, one over the other, and leaving out the bottom part of the "U."

Next? Louis Levels John Henry in 2:29

Referee Stops Bout
After Lewis Hits Canvas Third Time

JOE IS UNTOUCHED

Title Bout Goes 25 Seconds Longer Than Schmeling Battle

NEW YORK—(AP)—The quest for a worthwhile opponent for Joe Louis seems downright silly after last night's farce at the Garden, when the tan terror reduced poor John Henry Lewis to a battered, helpless hulk of a man in 2 minutes and 29 seconds of fighting.

When John Henry went down under the onslaught for the third and last time, the thought must have struck every last one of the 17,350 fans in the arena that in Joe Louis there was a fighter who stood alone.

The Brown Bomber, defending his title for the fifth time, was not struck a real blow as he shuffled in and knocked the daylights out of Lewis. Not a glove had yet been laid on Joe when Referee Arthur Donovan lifted the glass-eyed John Henry to his legs and yelled to the knockdown judge "That's enough."

Thorough Beating
Lewis, who spotted the great champion 20 pounds, received as terrible a beating in the fraction of a round as Louis dealt out to Max Schmeling when he slaughtered the German in 2:04 last summer. Maybe it was worse, though Lewis showed no serious ill effects in his dressing room afterward and insisted he had not been badly hurt when the fight was stopped.

The spectators didn't agree with that. Some said they feared another Louis might have broken the challenger's neck. He had been down twice before, for counts of two and three, and each time had recoiled to his feet with his guard dangling uselessly. The last time Joe gave him the works, a cruel right to the jaw with all of the champ's 200 pounds behind it. Lewis was groping around, his eyes rolling and his face contorted, when the count reached five and Donovan intervened.

Punched Viciously
It is difficult to measure a fighter's greatness, but this writer ran into three well-known fight managers on the way out and each of them said solemnly: "He would have knocked out Dempsey."

The big, poker-faced Negro has become a finished fighter and a terrible man to meet in the ring. He went after Lewis last night with an awful certainty. He didn't consent to do any sparring. They had fiddled for not more than 10 seconds when Joe closed in and began ripping lefts and rights. He swung every punch viciously.

The first right that hit John Henry's jaw spun him against the ropes and staggered him. He said later he never recovered from it. Within another 10 seconds the barrage sent him down. He was up, but Lewis closed in and continued his merciless execution.

Lewis Was Game
In the short time it lasted, Louis must have landed 40 times with his power. To the challenger's credit it only can be said he was game. If he had been permitted he would have taken more of it, but that would not have been much fun to watch.

Though he had reason to be pleased with the $102,000 he took in last night, Promoter Mike Jacobs' mind must be filled with serious doubts today about digging up that May opponent he has promised the champion. He has been seriously considering a Louis-Tony Galento fight, but it is difficult to see how he can do it without experiencing a few qualms of conscience.

The Louis of last night, surely would have made a chopping block of Roland Tony.

The only possibility this writer can see is Lou Nova, providing the promising young Californian continues to develop at an even pace and remains out of Joe's reach for at least another two years.

Max Schmeling Starts
Trip to United States

Berlin—(AP)—Max Schmeling, who recently declared he would try again to win back the heavyweight crown, has started for the United States.

Schmeling and his trainer, Max Baer, have booked passage on the Normandie, due in New York Feb. 2.

An effort to get another fight may be in the minds of the two Maxes but everything here pointed to a deliberate effort on Schmeling's part to put at rest rumors he has been sent to a concentration camp and others concerning his health and that of his actress-wife, Anny Ondra.

Coach Cole Asks for Wrestlers at School

Coach Wallace Cole issued the first call for boys to join the wrestling classes which will be started next week at Appleton High school. Meetings will be held at 4 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. After the boys get in shape, tournaments will be held in several weight divisions.

John Henry's Father Glad His Son Didn't Take Backward Step

BY DREW MIDDLETON

NEW YORK—(AP)—You know how Louis is hitting so fast you have to watch the ripples of the muscles on his back to count the punches. Hitting so hard the best men grow goggle-eyed and fall in their stride like a man in a dream. How do you think a father feels watching his son in there, watching him go down, beaten?

John Edward Lewis knows. His son was in the ring with Joe last night. The son he was proud of. The son who became a fighter. The son who was lightweight champion of the world.

"Louis hits too fast and too hard. I've seen my boy fight before. He's a good fighter. I thought he had a chance. Maybe he did—before the fight. But when that feller gets hitting, when he sort of scrapes his way in and lets go, my boy had only his guts to keep him in there."

Proud Man
John Edward Lewis is a proud man. It hurt him terribly to see John Henry go down in the dressing room he shuffled through the crowd and wiped his boy's body, talking to him low and soft.

After, when John Henry had wrapped a blue bathrobe about himself, his father came out and talked a little, one eye on his son. "I raised this boy. To be a fighter. I was a fighter once myself. Not good but good enough to make a little dough. You know how I felt tonight? Like Louis was hitting me."

"John was a good fighter. He still is. I don't want him to have any more of Louis. But I'm proud of him. He didn't take a backward step tonight. He never has."

Pupils Form New Basketball Loop

Seven Teams Join Noon-Hour Cage Circuit
At High School

Seven teams have entered the noon-hour basketball league which opened play Wednesday at Appleton High school, according to W. C. Chalket, physical education instructor. A team of faculty cagers will challenge the winning team when the tournament is completed.

W. Thompson captains the Teachers' squad which is composed of Wayne Musset, Morris Kain, Mike Koehler, C. Mueller, E. Krueger, G. Busse and A. Grieshaber. Captain of the Rascals is Ken Thompson and his team includes Bob Steudel, Don Jabas, Bob Bowers, Carleton Powers, John Rouse, Charles Buckle and M. Clarke.

Heading the Nifties is C. Hamer and members of the team are Fred Wiesse, E. Dauchert, Bob Coley, Bob Wilson, Don Henrich, M. Filz, Dick Palmback, Carl Burmeister, and Bob Kessler. Lester Abel captains the Unables with the following players: H. Stumpf, R. Kraft, J. Burke, M. Bergner, D. Bergner, and Sylvester Maute.

Unsigned Contracts Don't Bother Wrigley

Chicago—(AP)—Owner P. K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs is showing little or no concern over the unsigned player contracts finding their way back to his office these days.

It's just an old custom, avers Wrigley, adding: "If the players didn't return the first one they would lose caste."

Only four of 23 contracts mailed out by the Cub office last week have come back with signatures. Seven others arrived yesterday, unsigned, and promptly were returned to the mail-unaltered.

"Any time a fellow can show us he is worth more," Wrigley said, "we'll talk it over with him."

Hortonville at Shiocton.
Freedom at Wrightstown.
Winnecoonne at Bear Creek.

KIMBERLY is expected to maintain its undefeated record in the Eastern division of the Little Nine conference when it meets Reedsville in a tilt at Reedsville Friday evening. Denmark travels to Seymour for what promises to be a nip-and-tuck battle and Brillion entertains Hilbert. Winnecoonne is expected to hurdle Bear Creek with little effort and would climb into a tie for first place in the Western division if Shiocton should upset Hortonville. Both Bear Creek and Shiocton will be cavoring on their home floors. Freedom will journey to Wrightstown.

MEET SHIOCTON
Hortonville—Hortonville High school basketball players are preparing to meet Shiocton in a Little Nine conference game at Shiocton Friday evening.

A boxing match will be staged between halves of the game. Richard Jandourek and Wallace Hanson, Hortonville High school boys, will compete against two Shiocton scrappers.

The Hortonville High school basketball booster game will be played in the Community hall Friday evening Feb. 3 with the Wrightstown High school team as the opponent.

Town Taxi cagers will try to knock off the strong Elm Tree Bakery quint in the feature tilt of City-Y.M.C.A. league battles at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium this evening. The Elm Tree squad has been riding high in league play and may sub its toe on the Taxi team which has shown steady improvement.

Merchants will tangle with the Wire Works and are favored to retain their second place spot or climb into a tie for the league lead. Should Town Taxis turn the trick, the Y.M.C.A. five is earmarked

CLINTONVILLE IN CUSTOMARY ROLE OF UNDERDOG

Clintonville High school cagers haven't done much in Northeastern Wisconsin conference competition this season but have a chance, and that's about all, of covering themselves with glory for they meet undefeated Shawano Friday evening on their home floor and a Trucker victory would rival the story of David and Goliath. The team showed potential power when it ran circles around New London in the first half of last week's tilt but took a drubbing in the second half. Meanwhile, Shawano had its hands full with Menasha. Playing the usual role of underdogs are, left to right, front row, Dick Ramsdell, John Martin, Jim Billmeyer, captain, Wally Greb, Art Zemske; second row, Herb Huffman, Don Colden, Ozzie Goerlinger, Lyle Roloff and Russ Bill.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
St. Mary, Oshkosh, at St. Mary, Menasha.
Stockbridge at St. John, Little Chute. (Non-conference)

LITTLE CHUTE—St. John High school Dutchmen will be host to the Stockbridge Indians Friday night at St. John gymnasium. The reserves of the two schools will clash in the preliminary.

In their first encounter. The Indians eked out a win over the locals, 17 to 16, with the aid of Schroven, a regular on the Chilton city team, who played at Little Chute Tuesday night. Schroven is a husky chap who is hard to stop under the hoop. Vanden Heuvel, Dutchmen center and, Weyenberg guard, went out on personals in the game at Stockbridge while trying to stop Schroven.

St. John was the only school to let Schroven play against them as teams around Stockbridge bar him. Due to the game here being non-conference, Stockbridge asked permission to use him as he is a colorful player and furnishes plenty of action.

The Dutchmen of St. John lead the Catholic conference with five straight wins and no defeats, and should St. Mary's of Menasha lose to the Gaels of Oshkosh, St. John will be assured of at least a tie for conference honors, if not the title.

ST. NORBERT WINS
De Pere—St. Norbert preps took their second victory by tipping St. Peter's High of Oshkosh, 18-14, in a Fox River Valley Catholic league fracas here last night.

The invaders dropped the lead early in the opening period, and trailed the rest of the game. The tally was 5-1 at the quarter, and 7-2 at the half.

Late in a wild closing session, St. Peter's drew close to the Scuiries but Van Busch's cool settled the issue. Schneider scintillated for the losers on a trio of two-pointers, while Vander Busch connected for four.

NEENAH—Coach Ole Jorgensen directed his Neenah High school squad through a stiff workout Wednesday afternoon because the Rockets oppose New London here Friday night and the Neenah mentor doesn't want his cagers to get caught flatfooted by the strong Bulldogs, spoiling a record of six wins against one defeat.

It is likely that Jorgensen will open with his usual starting cast, assigning Captain Dan Schmidt at center, Hackstock and Peterson at forward jobs, and W. Kettering and Hesselman at guard posts.

Unlike most of their games this season, the Rockets are taking the Stacymen seriously. Neenah managed to come out of the first game at New London with a 21 to 15 victory. Because of that victory, the Rockets will be favored to win.

The game, naturally, points to the crucial Neenah-Shawano tilt here Feb. 10 despite the fact that the Rockets have to topple the Bulldogs and West DePere before facing the Indians, conference leaders and defending champions. If the Bulldogs should upset the Rockets, much of the importance of the Neenah-Shawano tilt will be lacking.

In the preliminary game tomorrow night, the Neenah reserves will be trying to keep pace with the varsity in wins and losses, for Coach Ivan Williams' young Rockets hold the same record as the varsity, six wins against one defeat.

BULLDOGS READY
New London—Friday night the New London Red and White will desert the home floor again for an invasion of Neenah in a Northeastern Wisconsin conference basketball game. The "B" squad will travel along to play the preliminary.

The squad has been drilled at regular practice this week with Coach D. N. Stacy pacing the boys in different combinations to fill in the vacancy left by Melklejohn's enforced lay-off. Reserves have been getting increased workouts and in a scrimmage early this week they out-scored the varsity five.

With four wins and three losses, the New London record is not discouraging even though they lost their first encounter with Neenah here, 21 to 15. According to statistics the Stacymen have collected 28 more points than their opponents in conference games, 172 to 144. Doug Hoier leads individual efforts with 64 points, 52 on field goals, for nearly half the total scoring.

The Bulldogs have fared best on free throws this season, netting 54 to 22 for their opponents. Records show they play a clean game with only 54 fouls called against 74 on the opposition. The squad has won by good margins and lost by slim points, having averaged 23 points per game to 20.5 for opponents.

ELM TREE BAKERS had a severe case of scoringitis during a tilt with the Fond du Lac A-C team at Y.M.C.A. gymnasium last night and smothered the invaders under a 72 to 26 blanket. Eddie Krause suffered the most severe attack and used his height and drive to collect 24 points on 11 buckets and 2 gift shots.

Lillge came through with six field goals and five free throws as the Bakers routed the Fond du Lac squad which had been heralded as a strong aggregation. Grishaber starred in the back court when he held Fieshman to one bucket for three quarters of the game and Burton's passes to Lillge and Krause were a highlight of the tilt.

Ask Return Game
Fondy players were not a little disturbed about the outcome of the game and promised to return in two weeks with a squad which would hang a defeat on the Elm Tree Bakers collective chin.

The Bakers will see plenty of action over the weekend for they are slated to meet Hancock there at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon and will face the Nekoska Comets at Neenah in the evening. Monday the squad will travel to Green Bay to tackle Bertrand Sports in the Green Bay Y.M.C.A. sport carnival.

Marion Reserves Nose
Out Shawano Seconds

Marion—In a game that had the crowd on its toes most of the time, the Marion "B" team eked out a 21-18 win from the Shawano High's reserves in the preliminary to the high school game played here Tuesday evening. Mehlberg led the winners with nine points, while Anderson with six points, was high pointer for Shawano. Marion held the edge at the end of each period by scores of 6-2, 12-7, 14-12 and 21-18.

Shawano's city team was swamped in a post high school game played with the Marion A. C's Tuesday night. The final count was 32-21 in favor of the locals. Foley and Pockat led the home team, with three buckets and two charities for eight points apiece; while Reed for the visitors scored two field goals and six safeties for ten points.

New Basketball League Opens Play at School

Appleton Is Slight Favorite to Trip Sheboygan Central

APPLETON HIGH school has a better than even chance to get back into the win column when the quint meets Sheboygan Central in a Fox River Valley conference battle at 8:15 Friday night in the new gymnasium. The invaders have a .500 percentage in conference standings with three wins and as many losses while Appleton is a notch below them with two triumphs and four defeats for a .333 ranking.

The big gun of the Sheboygan attack is Laack, who has been getting more than his share of points in conference scraps. Preparing a defense to stop him is a problem which has occupied the attention of the squad this week.

Coach Joseph Shields has been absent from drills this week because of illness and Myrlon Seims has been looking after the varsity squad. Seims regularly handles the reserve team. Whether Shields will be on deck for the game Friday night is a matter which the doctor still has to decide.

Look for Victory
Seims has kept the boys grinding away and they're looking for a victory tomorrow night. The squad is intact though Fraser, steady forward, has been wrestling with a cold and may not see a great deal of action. Bill Besch is expected to get the call at the pivot post while Buesing, Fraser or Werner will start in the forward wall.

The choice of guard positions lies between Wesley Morris, Bob Bailey and Bud DeLeest who have been sharpening their shooting eyes during daily practices. Ball handling and review of plays has rounded out rehearsal periods.

Edgar Hagene has been directing the reserves who will tangle in a preliminary tilt with the Sheboygan seconds at 7 o'clock.

Six other conference outfits are scheduled for action. Manitowish will get its stiffest test at Green Bay East while the lanky Green Bay West may surprise Oshkosh on the Sawdust City court. In the fourth tilt, Fond du Lac goes to Sheboygan North.

Green Bay East, Manitowish and Oshkosh are leading the conference with five victories and one defeat apiece. Green Bay West and Sheboygan Central are notched in second place with three wins and as many losses each while Appleton is third with two wins and four losses. Fond du Lac and North bring up the rear.

Oshkosh May Lead
Unless there are any upsets, Oshkosh and East will probably be leading the conference after Friday night. East is expected to beat Manitowish while Oshkosh will probably take West. The Fond du Lac-North tilt is somewhat of a tossup.

The Cardinals will probably suffer a letdown especially after their performance against Oshkosh last Friday night when Coach Mike Calvano's boys slipped in 17 points during a thrilling last quarter to come within one point of the Indians. However, on the basis of past performances Fond du Lac has a slight edge of North.

school. One rural team also will participate in the tournament which will be part of the intramural athletic program. No members of the varsity, B squad or sophomore team are eligible for competition.

"LIGHT" IS RIGHT

Most Americans have decided that in whiskey, "LIGHT" IS RIGHT. You'll check with the majority when you try Schenley's Friendly "Red Label." It is 90 proof, and "mellowed" smooth by an exclusive Schenley method. Try this light whiskey... you'll stay with it! "Friendly" to your taste.

For a richer blended whiskey try Schenley's Black Label, also 90 proof, has a more powerful flavor, only slightly more. 60¢ a bottle, several sizes.

WEYAUWEGA has a chance to trim Manawa's lead in Central Wisconsin conference standings on its home floor Friday evening while Waupaca and Marion are expected to stage a battle royal at Marion and Iola and Amherst will square off on the latter's court.

Marion—The Marion High school quintet will meet Waupaca on the local floor Friday in a conference game. This will be the second game played with Waupaca this season, Marion losing by a close score.

Reserve Wildcats have been fairly successful and have played games with Shawano, Bear Creek, Leopold, Tigerton, Weyauwega and Seymour. In their last game, they held a much larger Weyauwega B team to a 7 tie at the end of the first half. They are just starting to click and are looking forward to some wins in their future games.

The squad consists of Julius Dapin and Norman Draeger, guards; George Bazile and Tom Meyer, forwards; and Billy Bertram, center. The reserves are: John Buhr, Bob Lacy, Roy Wiseman, Bill Borchardt and Gerald Dieck.

Kaukauna Holy Cross C. Y. O. Girls Defeat St. Joseph Team, 16-12

The Holy Cross C.Y.O. girls basketball team of Kaukauna defeated the St. Joseph Senior Young Ladies Sodality 16-12 in a game played at St. Joseph's hall this week. D. Timmers plying the winners with nine points. Haag and Van Handel each netted four points for the Appleton team.

The St. Joseph's freshman girls turned back the St. John freshman girls of Little Chute 22-21, with Ebben plying the winners' attack by scoring six baskets. Van Wymeren's 11 points were tops in the Little Chute column.

The St. Joseph's Junior Young Ladies Sodality defeated the St. John sophomore girls 32-22, with Swamp netting 16 points for the winners. Van Handel's 18 points led the Little Chute attack.

Signing of Gehrig Undermines Positions of Most Holdouts

BY JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK.—There should be widespread rejoicing among major league managers today because of the calm acceptance of a cut by Lou Gehrig, baseball's highest salaried player, apparently signals surrender for most of the holdout troops.

By signing every incoming mail is brimming signed contracts to the various clubs and the really reluctant bidders probably can be numbered on the fingers of one hand. These would holdouts include Van Lingle Mungo of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who has been asked to work for $5,000 instead of the $55,000 he received last year and Buck Newman of the St. Louis Browns, who wants $20,000.

There is no question their positions were undermined by the signing of Gehrig.

Termed "Compromise" Gehrig had not announced until yesterday. Gehrig actually signed Tuesday night, just one day after he received the contract in the mail. It is debatable how much showing was covered by President Ed Barrow's statement that the final figure was a "compromise," but usually good guessers say the durable first sacker probably accepted a $4,000 cut to $35,000.

JOHN HENRY LEWIS STAYS 25 SECONDS LONGER THAN MAX SCHMELING DID

Joe Louis, a ruthless, smashing killer, battered John Henry Lewis into submission in two minutes 25 seconds of the first round of their scheduled 15-round heavyweight championship fight in New York, for his fifth successful defense of the title. Joe floored John Henry three times in the first round before Referee Arthur Donovan decided to halt the bout, awarding a technical knockout to Louis. Lewis is shown here sprawling toward the ropes, with the champion hovering over him.

Wilbur Strutz tied together games of 217, 200, and 204 for a 621 series to pace bowlers in the Eagles league last night and lead his Lutz Ice company to a sweep over Heinie's Halves and high team marks, 1,022 for game and 2,959 for match, the latter figure a season record for the league.

Other Lutz marks were: Huhn 200, 201, Getchow 225, 202, 614; Dertus 209. For the Halves, Schiltz pounced two games of 207 and a 611 series.

J. Moll, bowling with the Century club, rolled high game of 251. Fries rolled 216 and 581. A. Recker 223, and A. Knaus 200 as Adler Brau won all three from Ashauer's. For the losers, R. Egger shot 237 and 593. M. Ashauer 207 and K. Strutz 209.

With F. Jensen bowling 267 and 583, Mellow Brews took all three from Stark's and led by H. Wegner who hit 202 and 569 and M. Fraser who bowled 200.

A. Leisch smashed 224 and 605 and W. Fries 200 as O. K. Taxis took two from Century Club, led by L. Schroeder who topped games of 212, 203, and a 606 series and J. Moll who chucked a 251.

Daelke led the Angoras to a sweep over the String keggers, shooting a 485 series. For the losers, Schwab turned in a 483. Fitznick rolled a 486 as Pullovers won two from Zephyrs, led by Ashauer who hit 450.

Kimberly A. A. to Have Tough Nut to Crack in Beloit Squad

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly A.A. champs will have another tough battle next Sunday afternoon when they meet Walt's Bungalows of Beloit at the clubhouse. The game is expected to be full of action as the visitors are rated as champions of the southern part of the state and will stage a battle something like Waukesha did a few weeks back.

The Bungalows are primed for the Papermakers and will bring only the best they have to the village. They have an undefeated record in their territory. The team consists of former high school stars. Last week they were strengthened by the return of Eddie Polglaze, former all state guard of Beloit High who will not return to Jordan college.

The Walt's Five generally start with Hooks Lettingwell and Jimmy Tilley at forwards, Baird Currie, center, and Bob Scott and Larry Dibbert at guard. Ken Johnson and Bob Cahoon are just as good as the first stringers and will see plenty of action.

Veteran Squad

Kimberly has a veteran squad and thus far have lost only to Mattoon, who the Papermakers plan on meeting in a return match. The club team is trying to be active as state champions. It has covered the state in defense of the title. In addition to the Beloiters claiming championship in the southern part of the state, the visitors have a reputation in basketball just as Kimberly has.

Their reputation dates back to the old Beloit Fairies pro-team. Their high school teams have been outstanding year after year. Last Sunday Kimberly evened things with Kraft-Phoenix cagers of Green Bay with a win in addition to celebrating Joe Gossens' day. Green Bay was the only team to win over the Papermakers last year.

The first game will feature the Kimberly Holy Name team who will meet Seymour grade school. So far this year the Holy Names have defeated all in the Catholic league with very little trouble. Sunday they will have a real task on their hands.

The preliminaries will get underway at 2:15 with the big game starting about 3:15. There will be no reserve seats sold for the game. Grade children will sit in the balcony unless they are with their parents.

W. Pdamann hit 212 and the evening's high series, 582, as Laird and Plamann won two from Huesemann. Roehm chalked 200 and Block 210 for the winners, with R. Risse bowling 203 and 497 for the losers.

William Gust rapped a 513 series to lead Schabo Meats to a 2-game win over Hotel Appleton Barbers, led by Rehbein who rolled 439. Radtke hit 202 and 497 as Ideal Photo won two from Lemke Meats, headed by Tornow who rang a 523 series.

Volleyballers Break Even in Match With Fond du Lac Octet

Appleton "Y" volleyball team broke even in a match with the strong Fond du Lac "Y" team on the local floor last night, winning the first game 15 to 10, the second game 15 to 6, and dropping the last two by margins of 16 to 14 and 11 to 7. Due to a basketball game at 9:15, the fourth game was cut to 11 points.

The locals displayed team work in their first two games, making hard kills by Gene Mullen, Carl Fuerst and Percy Menning, with easy drop placements. Mullen was effective and scored repeatedly. The defensive play of the team showed a vast improvement over the fine exhibition in the Madison tilt. The men returning almost impossible kills, and seemed to sense just where the drives were coming. At times, however, the team showed a slight weakness in pass ups from the back court.

Besides Eugene Mullen, Carl Fuerst and Percy Menning, the Rev. C. M. Schendel also played a fine offensive as well as defensive game for the locals. The set-up men showed up exceptionally well. Robert Heiss, Dr. G. W. Carlson, Orville Wosner and Harvey Kahler formed the set-up combination. The next home match for the locals will take place Feb. 3 when the strong Waukesha team will play here.

Fill 5 Berths on U. S. Skate Team

Three More Places to be Decided at Oconomowoc Today

Oconomowoc — (7) — With five places on the 1940 American Olympic skating team filled, blade stars of the nation turned today to the 10,000-meter race upon the outcome of which three team berths hinge. The winner of the grind will be named to the team. So also will be the contestant, other than race winners, with the best average time in the 10,000 and in the 5,000-meter race which was held last weekend. The eighth man on the team will be the one who has the best average time in the 500, 1,500, 5,000 and 10,000-meter races.

Lamb Makes Grade

Three men made the team yesterday—George Wallace of San Francisco, by virtue of his victory in the 1,500-meter race, which he took with a two-hour time average of two minutes, 24.7 seconds; Delbert Lamb of Milwaukee, whose average time for both the 500 and 1,500 was the best; and Charles Leighton of Minneapolis, who had the best average time in the 500, 1,500 and 5,000-meter races.

Winners of each event automatically qualified for the team and dropped out of competition immediately. Likewise, Lamb and Leighton no longer are eligible for competition.

The first to make the team was Leo Freisinger of Chicago, winner of the 500-meter race. His fellow townsman, Eddie Schroeder, won a place by capturing the 5,000-meter event. They, with Lamb, were members of the 1936 Olympic team.

Lamb was second in the 1,500-meter event, last heat of which was skated yesterday, with an average time of 2:27.55. Leighton was fifth with an average of 2:30.35.

Joe Proved He Was Friend of Lewis by Winding It Up Quick

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK.—(7)—Gents, things have reached the stage where you've got to get there ahead of time to see the finish of a Joe Louis fight. Last night Joe's old pal, John Henry Lewis, got his before you could say Jack Robinson. Bam, bang and a wham or two and the shooting was over. The boys are supposed to be the best of friends and Joe proved it by putting J. H. out of his misery as soon as he could unwind his right.

Sonja Henle almost stole the show. . . . Everybody quite looking at a red hot prelin when she tripped in. . . . Until then the John Barrymores were getting the photographers' business. . . . The real hero was an unknown from the Bronx named Shapson. . . . You'll probably never hear of him again, but he stayed four rounds with Patrick Edward Comiskey.

One big New York hotel will make a bid for the World's fair trade by installing a huge blackboard which will list the daily scores of every major and minor league team in the country. Joe Gould was around the ringside last night telling that he has three offers for far to fight in England, but can't get him to go back home until he was won a fight or so over here.

Three long ones for Lou Gehrig, who seen his duty and done it. . . . Grady Lefts, a 6 foot, 10-inch basketball center has been shipped from Oklahoma City to Long Island university to replace Dick Ahrens. Long Island U's original six foot tennor who flunked out last year. . . . Bob Erskine, Oklahoma U's new swimming coach, can't swim a stroke. . . . The other day the Reds received this characteristic two-line letter from Lee Grissom, the eccentric southpaw: "Send me $150 and I'll leave immediately." The boys in the Red front office haven't the slightest idea whether Lee means he'll head for the Tampa training camp or to Cincinnati to talk terms—but they sent the potatoes.

Little Chute — The Bears upset the leading Eagles in their match game, with Pete Van Heeswyk walloping a 625 series on games of 215, 210 and 200, for the Bruins while B. Mulry paced the Eagles with a 541 triple and Stack Heesaker showed a 206 game. Bears copped two games.

Giants met and vanquished the Cardinals in three straight games with Erv. Feldhahn blasting a series of 615 and high game of 247 followed by Shorty Wenzel with a 500 total and a 204 game. Glib. Fintleghe paced the losers with a 550 triple and a 202 game.

Packers closed the gap on the league leaders when they won the odd game from the Redskins, with Joe Mosaros topping the maples for a 565 series and H. Hall scoring 204. The Beef Trusters are only two games behind the leading team, the Eagles. Flora Schuler topped the Reds with a 546 triple while Carl Schuler had a 205 game.

The Lions kept the Rams in the cellar position with a 3-game victory over the last place team. B. Lambie paced the jungle kings with a 544 series and a 191 game while Karl Piepenberg led the Rams with a 497 triple and 184.

High series of the week was rolled by Pete Van Heeswyk with a 625 score. Erv. Feldhahn was second with a 615 score and Joe Mosaros had a 565 for third.

High, single game honors went to Erv. Feldhahn with a 247. Giants copped team honors with a 947 game while the Bears scored high team series with a 2,669 total.

Eight Signed for Mat Tournament

One-Night Tourney to be Innovation at Twin City Armory

Menasha—A one-night wrestling tournament with eight grapplers competing will be staged at the professional wrestling hall at S. A. Cook armory next Wednesday night. The tournament will consist of seven bouts with the spectators arranging the pairings for the contest.

All eight men signed up by William Erickson, promoter of the bouts, will be at the ringside, ready to go, at 8:30 Wednesday night. Names of the competitors will be placed in a hat and two spectators will draw one name each. The two men whose names are called will wrestle a 20-minute, one-fall contest. If no fall is reached in 20 minutes, the grapplers will go an extra 10 minutes college style. The referee will give a decision at the end of the extra 10 minutes.

Three more drawings will be held to complete the first round. Losers are eliminated immediately. For the second round, the names of the four winners will be placed in the hat and the spectators again will determine which grappler will meet which opponent. The second round will consist of two 20-minute bouts under the same rules as in the first round.

The championship bout will be one fall to a finish between the survivors of the first two rounds. In all there will be seven bouts on the card, including six scheduled to go one fall in 20 minutes and the final bout which will go until either grappler scores a fall.

RAY CRANE smashed a 231 game and Clem De Young a 611 series for individual honors in the Industrial bowling league last night at Arcade alleys as their Woolen Mills team outbowled Schlafer three straight and chalked up the best team total of 2,804. Fox River and Atlas Embossers, two of the league's leading teams, were beaten in last night's matches.

De Young strung together games of 218, 182, and 211 in hitting his big series, with Barlament, another Woolen kegger, getting a 211 on one game. McGee's 524 series was high in the Schlafer column.

With Roy McCallum shooting a 531 series, Al's Bar swept a match with the league-leading Fox River crew, slicing their edge over the Wadhams Oil keggers to one game. For the Fox River, Delrow hit 201 and Wegner 543.

Powers Win Two
Boettcher smashed 223, 204 and 555, Piper 213, and Sakallaris 211 as the Power company outstripped the Atlas Embossers in two games. For the Atlas gang, Nabelek shot 543. Ward Wheeler rolled 204 and 515 and Oswald 204 as Machine company took all three from Johnson's Shoes, paced by Orville Strutz who pounded 202 and 565.

M. Seims smashed a 221 game and 540 series, Cotton 204, and Pond 206 as Pond Sports outbowled Appleton Coated three straight, hitting top game of 1,018. For the losers, Schroeder hit 524. With Kelly Kline rapping marks of 202, 205, and 580, Meyer 201, Single 200, Zapp 202, and Gebheim 221. Atlas Printers trounced Dandy Rolls three straight. For the losers, Kitzinger hit 209, 213, and 578 and Strutz 203.

Wadhams Oils had too much for the Post-Crescent and walked away with three straight. Fred Yelg paced the winners, slamming 220 and 607 and M. Buck shot 201. For the losers, Starnard hit 230 and 586.

Seek Recognition
With the season more than half over two Kaw players will be bidding for all-conference recognition. Sophomores Bill Alger at center and Carl Gordan at guard have paced the Kaw attack and defense all year, with Alger's 50 points giving him a high spot in conference scoring records.

Tomorrow night Alger will start at center and Gordan and Junior Swedberg at guard. Joe Bloch and Don Bixel are likely to hold down the forward posts. For West De Pere C. Van Sistine and Johnson will be at forward, Bob Berken at center and L. Van Sistine and Gerke at guard.

TRIES NEW LINEUP
Shawano—The hapless Clintonville Trucks, current underdogs of the western division of the N.E.W. conference, will play host to the Shawano Indians Friday night in conference encounter. The Indians, with a Marion scalp acquired Tuesday night, will probably annex their eleventh straight victory.

Coach Clifford Dils, seeking a new combination since an injury removed Merle Cooper, besetcoasted forward, will undoubtedly continue experimentation started at Marion. In Shawano's 33-20 victory there, he used Harold Lahn, a guard, at forward, with Jesse, a reserve, Urban Gottschalk at center, and Billy Reed and Vern Rosnow at guards, later shifting Reed to forward with Gottschalk, putting the tall Franklin Schweers at center, and playing Lahn and Rosnow at guards. Several other reserves got into the game.

Billy Reed, in several trials, has played equally well at either forward or guard, giving the Maroon and Black mentor a wide latitude in first string combinations. At Clintonville, however, as at Marion, he is likely to use any number of men in an effort to give the reserves some practical varsity experience.

Throughout the entire range of models offered this season weight reduction and more power are noticeable as is the marked tendency to eliminate single cylinder engines from the lines. There are many more twin cylinder motors evident in the 1939 line than ever before.

When price divisions have remained about the same, there have been several significant downward revisions, and in general there is more motor offered for the money. Efficiency and price are both swinging in the outboard addicts' favor. (Copyright, 1938, North American Sportsman's Bureau, Inc.)

Walsh Sees Another Banner Year for Badger Ring Squad

Madison—(P)—Coach Johnny Walsh, who has lifted boxing to the second highest paying sport on the University of Wisconsin athletic program, is looking forward to another banner season.

His teams have won 27 of 30 matches in his six years of tutoring. They were undefeated in 1935 and again last year and have never lost in the fieldhouse ring.

Only two men were lost through graduation—Vito Schiro, undefeated for two years in the tough 165 pound division and Elmer Dushek, heavyweight. To more than balance these losses Walsh has the finest sophomore crop in the school's history.

Year after year Wisconsin has taken on the finest teams in collegiate circles and this year is no exception. Here is the Badger schedule for 1939: Feb. 8-10—All University tournament; Feb. 7—Loyola of the South, here; Feb. 24—West Virginia, here; Mar. 4—Penn State at State College, Pa.; Mar. 10—Miami (of Florida), here; Mar. 17—Villanova, here; Mar. 25—Louisiana State, here; Mar. 30-31 and April 1—National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament; and April 14—Washington State, at Pullman, Wash.

"Barring injuries, this year's team should be equally as good as that of last season," Walsh said. "Our schedule is far tougher than that of last year but we should have a good season, regardless."

Three strong teams have replaced weaker opponents of the 1938 schedule. Loyola replaces Tulane, and the Southern school has a better club than Tulane did last year. Miami, taking the place of St. Norbert College, has one of the greatest teams in the South. Villanova, which comes here in place of Syracuse, had one of the strongest combinations in the country last year, and is said to be even more potent in the coming campaign. Loyola and Villanova, like Wisconsin, had undefeated seasons.

L. S. U. was Southern champion last year and is scheduled to give Wisconsin most trouble. Villanova was close second as the team to drop Wisconsin from the undefeated ranks.

Six regulars are returning to Walsh's aggregation. Art Walsh, of Janesville, and co-captain, possessor of a flashing jaw, seems to have a head start in the 120 pound class. His experience should give him the starting post over Bob Satschale, a promising sophomore.

Brother Boxes
Art's brother, Jim, co-captain, a finished fighter, should take over the task of mixing with the opposing 127 pounders. However, there is some doubt whether Jim can pare down to that classification. Should he find this a reality, he will be pushed up to the 135 pound bracket and Charles Martinek, Madison sophomore and All-University title holder last year, will step into the breach.

Jim will have a hard time gaining the top rank in the lightweight class as several rough and ready customers named Gene Rankin, of Superior and Clay Hogan, of Oshkosh, stand in his way. Both have had plenty of experience in the ring, and will push the heavier half of the Janesville brother combination.

Omar Crocker, Aurora, Wis., junior, has the 145 pound assignment cinched. He won seven straight fights last year, applying sleeping potion to four opponents in the first round. Few doubt that he was the best welterweight in collegiate circles last season.

Carnes For Running
Ray Chisholm, of Glidden, also has a weight problem. He will either serve as relief man to Crocker or battle for a starting berth with Woody Swancutt, of Wisconsin Rapids, one of the finest fighting machines on the Badger roster and All University champ last year. Swancutt defeated Crocker for the 135 pound championship. Bob Carnes, of Appleton and Ed Pias, of Milwaukee, both sophomores, will remain in the running, but as long shot bets.

Henry Strand, of Poskin, who also jumped one weight division, will most likely represent the Badgers in the 165 pound class. He boasts a terrific right hand and pounded most of his rivals to the canvass. Ray Kramer, of Elkhart Lake, All University champ, and Bill Roth, of Milwaukee, are conceded chances to upset the veteran.

Truman Torgerson, of Rock Falls, whose smile is as big as his right hand is potent, will handle the 175 pound enemy and has capable support from Bill Marquardt, of Two Rivers, a reserve last year.

Nick Lee, of Milwaukee, rounds out Wisconsin's representation. He is one of the finest heavyweight prospects to come to the Badger school since boxing was inaugurated in 1933. Dave Machtel, of Madison, like Lee, a sophomore, will serve as first reserve.

Rule Changes
Several rule changes have been made in collegiate boxing this year. Instead of the small 16 square foot ring, the mitt swingers will shuffle around 20 square feet of canvas. Special gloves, manufactured with specifications laid down by inter-collegiate officials, will replace the old mitts. Tape across the knuckles on hand bandages is banned. A boxer, when knocked down, is now forced to take the nine count, whether he regains his feet before the toll is concluded or not. Previously a three pound leeway was allowed in all classes, but now the punch-swappers will have to weigh in on the head or below the poundage of each respective division.

Wisconsin expects to entertain nearly 100 boxers from schools all over the country when it displays the fourth annual edition of the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament. Both financial and attendance records are expected to be shattered. University officials are now working on tourney plans.

Dim Lights for Safety
The remaining 450 scholarships would still be available for distribution on a strict scholarship basis as all of them are now," he added. Swartz, a Republican, once coached a Masden Park High school baseball team to a Buffalo city championship.

Asks New York to Provide Aid for High School Stars

Albany, N. Y. —(P)—A former high school coach who now helps make New York's laws want to aid schoolboy grid stars obtain college educations on state scholarships.

"Consideration of athletic ability in awarding existing state scholarships would help end collegiate racketeering in athletics," said State Senator Arthur L. Swartz of a bill he has introduced in the state legislature.

He explained his proposal, if approved, would require the New York state board of regents to consider athletic ability in choosing recipients of 300 of the 750 scholarships of varied amounts awarded annually to worthy high school graduates.

"The remaining 450 scholarships would still be available for distribution on a strict scholarship basis as all of them are now," he added. Swartz, a Republican, once coached a Masden Park High school baseball team to a Buffalo city championship.

Alameda, Calif. —(P)—Outwardly unalarmed by Champion Joe Louis' dynamiting of John Henry Lewis in a little less than three minutes last night, Lou Nova, promising Alameda heavyweight who gained national recognition recently by beating Tommy Farr, declared today "I think I can lick Louis."

"I picked that fight to end in the first," said Nova, "but it wasn't much of a selection. John Henry has gone back a long way and he didn't figure to have a chance."

"As a matter of fact, Louis made his greatest successes against fighters who have long passed their peak. He beat Primo Carnera, Paulino Uzcudun, Max Baer and Max Schmeling, to mention a few, when they were all washed up. Yet he had his troubles with fighters like Tommy Farr and Bob Pastor who were nearer their peak when he fought them."

The WORLD OF STAMPS

By The AP Feature Service
Sweden plans to replace her current regular series of heraldic lion, posthorn-and-crown and King Gustav V. profile left, types with a 17-value series of two handsome new designs, starting the end of January. The designs for the 10 lower values, 5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 35, 40, 45 and 50 ore, will again offer a profile of Gustav V. but facing right. It is the work of Torsten Schenborg. The design for the 10, 15, 20 and 45 ore—consists simply of the three crowns from the coat-of-arms. It is by Arthur K. Johansson. The word "ore" has been omitted to simplify the designs further, leaving "Sverige" and the value figure the only inscriptions.

The new stamps will be introduced slowly over the next year or two to supplant the series Sweden has used since 1920.

Two commemorative issues are also on the 1939 schedule for Sweden. One will mark the centenary of the death of Per Henrik Ling, May 3, 1839. He founded Stockholm's Royal Gymnastic Central Institute and invented the Swedish calisthenics system. The other will mark the 20th anniversary of the Royal Swedish Academy of Science, organized June 2, 1739.

World's Fair Stamp
A picture of the Progress of Man building at the New York World's Fair will be the vignette for the Fair stamp on the U. S. 1939 new issue list, says Ramsey S. Black, third assistant postmaster general.

Mooney In The Album
The recent pardon of Thomas J. Mooney recalls the 10-cent stamp bearing his portrait which the Catalonian Government in Spain issued a couple of months ago. Mooney is considered the symbol of "class persecution" by labor groups. He was serving a life sentence in San Quentin prison, convicted of participating in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day explosion, Culbert L. Olson, pardoned him.

In the same set with the Mooney stamp are two others of the same value, carrying heads of Domini Rolland, the great French writer, who is a pacifist, and Edgar Andre, Communist executed in 1936 as an anti-Nazi terrorist.

Danzig Nazis Annoyed
The new set of four Polish stamps inscribed "Port Gdansk," and presumably issued for use in the Polish postoffice, in the free town of Danzig, has annoyed the Nazis of that port considerably.

The design shows a scene there in the 18th century, with "Polish gentlemen bargaining for wheat with Danzig merchants." It implies Danzig was Polish-controlled in those days.

The set consists of 5-groszy red-orange, 15-groszy, 25-groszy dull violet and 55-groszy blue. Interesting detail in the background of the design includes figures loading a sailing vessel anchored at the wharf. The men in the foreground are wearing elaborate fur-collared costumes of the period.

Another recent stamp from Poland also perturbed the Nazis. It pictures the symbols of the subjugation of the Teutonic Order—a casque with plume and sword which the German knights had presented to Vladislav before the Battle of Grunewald.

Crab And Lightning
The new Cuban semi-postals issued for the benefit of the International Anti-Cancer Union use the same pose of the Pierre and Marie Curie heads which appeared on the French issues, and add a symbolic crab being struck by lightning in the lower left corner.

Card Parties are Given At Brillion Residence

Brillion — Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cottrell entertained the members of their schafskopf club at their home on Sunday evening. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schultz and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Oip of Reedsville.

Miss Otto Zander was hostess to the members of her birthday club at her home on Saturday afternoon in honor of her birthday anniversary. The afternoon was spent in doing handwork after which a lunch was served to the Mesdames Henry Leppla, L. E. Heath, Jack Galloway, Elmer Schmeider, Charles Jensen, Elliot Zander, C. H. Kuehl and Miss Mildred McComb.

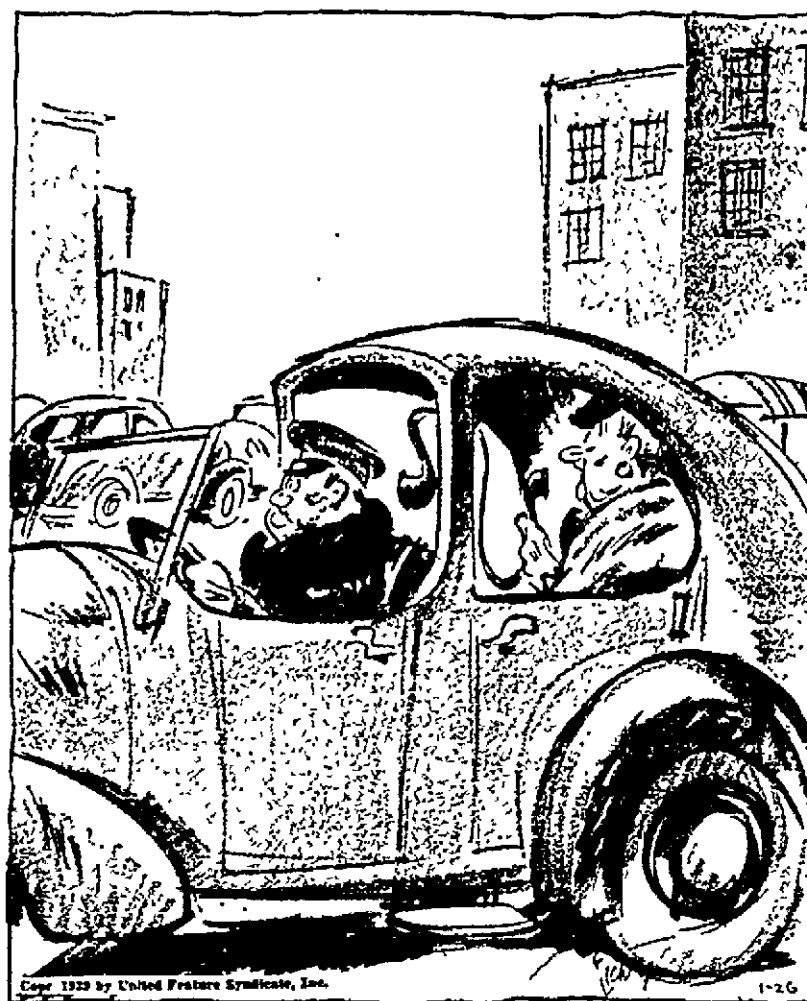

Mrs. Robert Beck was hostess to the members of her five hundred club at her home on Monday evening.

Miss Emma Horn was hostess to the members of her contract bridge club at her home on Monday afternoon.

Members of the Catholic Youth Council held their regular meeting at the school hall Monday evening. It was announced at this meeting that a C. Y. C. dance will be held in the Brillion auditorium Feb. 8. All Catholic young people are invited. Plans were made for the organization to present a play entitled "Clashing Societies" at the auditorium. No definite date has been selected but as soon as the individual copies of the play arrive the cast will be selected. Plans were made to have a sleigh ride party Sunday afternoon if the weather permits.

Noel looked long at David. He is the substance, the anchor I need, went through her mind quickly. In a rare affectionate mood, she kissed David.

"You love me very much, don't you?" she asked wonderingly. His caress was convincing. He seemed too moved to say it with words.

"June isn't far off." But Noel's voice seemed far away. As she said it she put something out of her life forever.

In a week, she was completely recovered, though she took precautions against a recurrence of the throat ailment. All social engagements were cancelled. Her waking hours were occupied with her work. And, if, sometimes in her dreams, the image of Allan persisted, she turned from it in the dawn and deliberately thought about David.

"Worried About You?" "It will take time—to forget," that's what she said to herself when, one morning, she saw a letter from Allan, among her mail.

"Noel, dear," he wrote, "I just learned of your illness from mother. I worried so about you after I got her letter. I hope you are completely recovered when you receive this note. But do take care of yourself."

He wrote of his pleasure at hearing of the play's success. "I know how important your work is to you and that this must give you satisfaction and happiness."

And at the end he mentioned, "I'll be seeing you in a couple of months—some matters down here are taking longer than I expected."

"Allan!" Noel said the name softly, her heart in her whisper. A tear fell on his letter. What will it matter, when you come back? she wondered. But knew she'd be happy to see him, if just for a moment.

In fact, during the weeks that followed she found herself counting the time against his returning. "Don't be a fool!" she said to herself more than once.

March went out meekly. It was April with the first hint of spring in the air. David, ever devoted, took her riding late afternoons. They had tea at country inns and David spoke often of June.

"Would you consider leaving the play when we're married?" he asked humbly one evening as they were driving to the theater. Something caught at Noel's heart. No more theater? Nothing but being married to David?

"I'll not give half measure," she whispered fiercely to herself. She turned to David:

"If that would make you happy, David, I'll think about it." Noel knew, though, she'd do it for David. No need to think about it. But June was two months away?

Another note came from Allan. It was the reply she'd written him. "I'll be sailing in two weeks," he announced. She could read his eager anticipation in the conservatively penned message. "And I'm looking forward so much to seeing you in the play."

One night, she'd come out on the stage—but this time would be different. Allan would be sitting there, terror clutched at her as she thought about it.

Noel spent a Sunday with Mrs. Marchand in Claiborne, came back

Appleton Man Contributor to International Peace Museum

Carl H. Engler of Appleton has started work on the collection of various papers and pictures relating to Appleton and Wisconsin which will be sent to La Plata, Argentina, for display in a museum that will be established in connection with the International Garden of Peace, now a year old.

The Garden of Peace, planned and executed by the director of parks at La Plata, now has flowers representing 51 nations and the museum will carry writings and articles from these and additional nations.

Engler has collected information on Lawrence college, the Institute of Paper Chemistry, the Appleton Y. M. C. A. and a bulletin from the state conservation department to be sent to the international museum, along with pictures.

Promoting of peace and good will among nations is the object of the Garden of Peace and the museum. Alberto V. Ottavien, the originator, has widely spread the ideals of his garden and suggested to various national governments that similar projects in their countries will help disseminate the idea of peace among peoples of the world.

The World League for the Permanent Peace of the United States of America is one of many agencies that has congratulated Ottavien on his work, considering the project of "the greatest importance and value for the peace of the world."

As president of the International Rotary club, Maurice Dupuyre visited the Garden of Peace at La Plata on his South American tour in 1937. He has proposed to the corresponding board of that society that Rotary International collaborate and promote the founding of such gardens throughout the world. Ottavien, the founder, belongs to the Rotary club of La Plata.

Recently the ambassador of Great Britain visited the garden and planted the white and red roses of Great Britain and the traditional oak sent by the town hall of Liverpool.

CALLED POLICE

while his parents attended a wrestling match.

About 10:30 p. m., Richard telephoned the police and said: "I'm scared. Won't you send somebody out?"

A squad found every room in the house lighted. Richard and the girl were glancing nervously at rattling windows and doors.

The officers assured the children it was just the wind and left as the Schwachers returned.

Many Entries Made for Program at Kimberly

Kimberly — The Major Bowes amateur program to be sponsored by the athletic association at the clubhouse on the evening of Feb. 10, has a large number of contestants from around the valley already signed to take part.

The program will consist of tap, ballroom and jitterbug dancing, hillbilly bands, solos, duets, and quartets and harmony music. The Rev. L. C. Smith, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will take the part of Major Bowes and Bud Webb will do the announcing.

Among those taking part are: Dorothy Vanden Hoogen and Edna Blazek in western songs; a number of Kimberly boys will furnish music and be called "Chops band"; Jean Mc Elroy and Grace Bunnaw, songs; Elaine Newhouse, solo vocalist; Lester and Wilma Pradee, songs and guitar; Bernard Eucher, song and guitar; John Ermers and his partner, ballroom dance; Ricardo Vanden Boogaard, trumpet solo.

Jean Behling, tap dance; Bobby Sauter and company will be heard in harmony singing; Margaret and Joyce Hanegeat, songs; pupils of a local pianist will also take part in the program.

Checks Being Issued Under Soil Program

Waupaca — Checks totalling $52,410.08, constituting soil depleting allotments have been given out by Victor H. Quick, secretary of the Waupaca County Agricultural association, during the week. Checks were issued at Waupaca on Jan. 24, at Iola and Clintonville on Jan. 25 and at Manawa and Fremont Jan. 26 a total of 800 checks. Total to date for the 1938 soil depleting plan for the 2,000 checks dispensed, is $170,325.12. About 500 more checks remain to be paid.

Work in the county agent's office and that of the soil conservation department has increased to such an extent that it has been necessary to rent a suite of offices in the Whittington block, offices formerly occupied by the Albert Miller company. The department employs six under the new setup, while two remain in the office of the county agent to handle the work of the soil conservation department.

Mr. and Mrs. Roach are Patients at Rochester

Waupaca — Relatives of Mr. and Mrs. William Roach have received word that they are both patients in the Mayo hospital at Rochester, Mr. Roach having submitted to an operation on Sunday and Mrs. Roach on Monday.

Mrs. Edward Pommer entertained the following friends at her home Tuesday evening: Mesdames Arthur Woody, William Kneeland, Ralph High and Mary Kramer of Waukesha.

Dr. and Mrs. Sam Salan are spending two weeks in Cuba, Bermuda and Panama where Dr. Salan has been delegated on a mission to locate homes for Jewish refugees.

CAR FIRE

Firemen were called out at 5:58 yesterday afternoon when a short circuit caused a fire in a car owned by Ed Shiefen, 525 N. Story street, in the alley near the 300 block of E. College avenue. The fire was out before firemen arrived.

Over 70 Years Ago We Said— "GET MORE FOR YOUR MONEY"

Back in 1867, in an advertisement in Harper's Weekly, we told your forefathers and their families that they were entitled to greater value for the money they spent for tea. In those days, A&P was pioneering a money-saving way of bringing teas from China to your great grandparents' tables. A&P was buying teas in the Orient, shipping them to America and our A&P stores in fast sailing vessels — and selling them at low prices made possible by the elimination of many "in-between profits." In those days, A&P sold Teas at 30c a pound that then cost consumers a dollar.

It was this kind of value giving — brought about by strict adherence to efficient, money-saving methods of marketing — that has made A&P the Nation's leading tea merchant. Today, A&P Food Stores are Tea Headquarters, offering three popular quality teas — Mayfair, Nectar, and Our Own — all at thrift prices. Tea is just one example of A&P's leadership in value giving — in bringing you more good food for your money. A&P makes, packs and sells a long list of fine foods — 8 O'Clock, Red Circle and Bokar Coffees, A&P Bread and Ann Page Foods. Each is priced low because expenses are eliminated wherever possible — and you get the savings. Come to A&P. Get more good food for your money!

Buys Truck Farm in Town of Grand Chute

John N. Welland has purchased a 21-acre truck farm in the town of Grand Chute from the Appleton Corporation. The Welland family recently moved from 114 E. Brewster street to the farm. The real estate transfer has been filed with Stephen Peeters, Outagamie county register of deeds. The following transfers also have been filed:

Joseph A. Hodgins to Martin Peerenboom, part of two lots in the village of Little Chute.

Hycost Realty corporation to Ernest P. Kasche a lot in the Third ward, Appleton.

OCEANIC NATIVES

Papeete, Tahiti — A large party of refugees from Germany stopped here on the S. S. Bridan, en route to new homes in Australia and New Guinea. Permission to investigate the possibility of settling in Tahiti was denied them.

This, officials explained, was no discrimination against the German Jews, but part of a studied policy of preserving French Oceania for the natives. Purchase of land by foreigners is forbidden, and certain islands may not even be visited by white persons without government permission.

Freedom Man Sells Animals to Laboratories; His Backyard Shed Is the Village Menagerie

GONNERING AND PART OF ANIMAL KINGDOM

It wasn't possible to pose Lawrence J. Gonnering of Freedom with all his live samples but in the above picture he is immediately surrounded by a goat and a St. Bernard dog and is holding a puppy in his hand. Behind him are the cages in his shed that hold such things as white mice, rabbits and guinea pigs. The black puppy is half St. Bernard and half Newfoundland. (Post-Crescent Photo)

BY DON ANDERSON

Freedom — A goat lowered her head and took an abrupt butt at a St. Bernard dog, the dog lumbered sorrowfully back into her den and sought comfort in her two puppies, a guinea pig squealed delightedly, a rabbit raised long ears in complacent curiosity, and a 2-quart jar of pine snake rattled on a top shelf. This all took place the other afternoon in the shed behind the home of Lawrence J. Gonnering, who is the ruler of Freedom's animal kingdom. It took place while a newspaper photographer was trying to pose Gonnering and his wards for a picture.

About the only living thing the shed doesn't house is an anteater and Gonnering never happened to run into one that had emigrated from its native habitat in South America. But Gonnering has run into lots of other animals and he has induced a great many of them, either through strategy or outright purchase, to come and live in his shed.

Considering its comparatively small dimensions, it's probably the most entertaining shed in the Fox River valley. It is different from most sheds in villages the size of Freedom, for what coal or wood that lies therein is decidedly of second-rate importance.

Supplies Labs

Gonnering acts as supply sergeant for laboratories and hospitals all the way from Fond du Lac to Chicago and besides that, he likes animals, a trait that explains the presence of the two St. Bernards. It is clear that a dog this size would be only a menace in a laboratory where his shambling awkwardness could only cause the worst kind of havoc among such frailties as test tubes.

A tag which is attached to crates of living things that Gonnering ships out explains his particular occupation. Listed on that tag as the stock in which he deals are live frogs, turtles, crawfish, minnows, rabbits, guinea pigs, and biological supplies.

Don't get the idea that the confused scene described earlier is a daily routine in Gonnering's shed. Usually the guinea pigs, the goats, the St. Bernards, the rabbits, the cats, and the canned pine snake get along smoothly. But having their picture taken was a milestone in their career and it is not hard to understand why they should get a bit flustered.

Crowded

Although the shed appeared to be a casual spectator to be about as crowded as a small-town bandbox holding the United States Navy band, Gonnering remarked that winter time is a "slack season", a time when his animal kingdom's population is at its low ebb.

In the summer time the place becomes even more informal, with the arrival of turtles, crawfish, worms, minnows, frogs, and various strains of insects.

Gonnering is not a collector of odd items. He has a definite business aim in acquiring a shed full of squealing things and every time he ships another crate full or jar full of stuff to the cities, he knows he's hit his mark.

House cats, for example, Gonnering buys them from people who don't want them; now and then he picks up a stray that is obviously unhappy. He sells them to laboratories for experimentation and tests in syphilis, he says. He had a crate of cats all nailed together to send out just the other day.

Cats Cause Trouble

This particular line of his merchandise is about the only one that causes him trouble. When one of his two handsome goats eats all the interior decorating (cardboard) off the wall, Gonnering only puts more on. That's simple.

With cats, it's different. Now and then he collides with a housewife whose cat is missing and who has suddenly remembered Gonnering and his shed.

"Yes, every now and then I have women running in here looking for their cats," Gonnering says. "You see, sometimes they have reason to, because although I'm interested only in those that aren't wanted, kids like to make a deal now and then and occasionally they pick up a pet."

Markets

Here's some more dope on what he does with his animated merchandise.

The white mice, (who seem to have a great time in their cages) cats, guinea pigs, rabbits, and frogs go to laboratories where they perform a wide and meritorious service for mankind. To give an idea of the volume of the business, Gonnering ships out about 25 or 30 cats a week. He has 40 different laboratories and hospitals on his address list.

Gonnering also sells frogs for bait or ships them to cities where their legs become delicacies. In the summer when the creeks are running free and there is life wriggling and crawling along the banks, Gonnering catches turtles and sends them away to be liquidated into soup. He also has a ready market for live bats, which he catches in old buildings during the night or asleep on twigs of trees during the day.

They Bite

Bats bite, Gonnering says. "I always wear gloves when I'm out hunting them."

He rates cats, guinea pigs, mice,

Democrats Agree On Appointments To State Offices

Senatorial Bloc Demands Jobs for Four-Party Members

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison — The six Democratic conservatives in the Wisconsin state senate, who have it in their power to determine the success or failure of the Heil administration because they hold the balance of power in the legislature, have settled upon four of their party brethren as candidates for important state jobs, it was disclosed on reliable authority today.

The Democratic bloc is demanding, it was revealed, the appointment of former state senator Joseph Clancy to the state board of control, the reappointment of William E. O'Brien of Milwaukee to the state highway commission, the reappointment of Harry R. McLogan of Milwaukee to the industrial commission, and the election of John Roach of Appleton as director of the state beverage tax division.

Clancy, a "lame-duck" senator who was defeated by a 27-year-old Progressive last fall in Racine, will be appointed to a $5,000 year seat on the board of control for a six-year term by the governor within the next month or so, it was freely predicted today.

Oratorical Scourge

Clancy is a power in the conservative state Democratic organization and was the principal oratorical scourge of the LaFollette forces in the state senate in 1935 and 1937. He has the backing of the united senate Democratic bloc, and the support of a considerable number of the Republican legislative leaders with whom he worked in the anti-LaFollette coalition during the two sessions as a member of the state senate.

It is probable, said his friends in the senate, that he will be chosen to succeed Mrs. Katherine Sullivan of Kaukauna, who was appointed by former Governor A. G. Schmedeman, and whose term expires next month.

The union of the Democrats on their patronage candidates is significant for they face extraordinarily keen competition. Job-seekers fill legislative lobbies and the governor's office each day.

The board of control is a three-member body which supervises and administers all of the state's penal and charitable institutions. Governor Heil recently made his first appointment there when he selected one of his Milwaukee friends, Frank C. Klode, a furniture manufacturer, to a vacancy. He will shortly be called upon to fill two others, caused by the expiration of the terms of Mrs. Sullivan and Col. John J. Hannan, veteran LaFollette man and long-time chairman of the board.

Amend Law?

One difficulty which was lamented by some administration supporters is the statutory requirement that one of the board's members be a woman. There were also some suggestions that the statute be amended, as a part of the reorganization program upon which the administration has embarked.

Such action, it was explained, would allow the governor to select from the large number of male candidates for the third seat. Organized feminine pressure could be satisfied, one legislative stalwart thought, by a couple of extra appointments to such boards as the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin.

The man most often mentioned for the third board of control vacancy is Dr. L. F. Gullickson of West Salem, chairman of the Republican state committee. No confirmation of such rumors can be obtained at the capitol, however. Gullickson himself scoffs at the idea, while some of the older, wiser heads at the statehouse report that Dr. Gullickson and Governor Heil are not as intimate as a Republican state chairman might be expected to be.

Mayor Asked to Speak At WTAQ Dedication

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., has been invited to speak during the formal dedication of WTAQ's new 5,000-watt transmitter at De Pere. The dedication program will be held between 11 and 12 o'clock Sunday noon, Feb. 12.

Important to Wash Hands After Playing With Pets

"Children are taught at an early age to 'wash your hands before you eat,' and wise are the parents who instruct their children to do so, thus forming a good health habit. To be sure, children often feel that their parents are merely trying to show their authority, but as they grow older, they appreciate that this rule was enforced in the interest of their health."

"Our hands are in almost constant contact with articles of one kind or another, and consequently germs are picked up. Some of the germs may be of a type that cause infection and disease, and when the hands come in contact with the mouth during the day, a quick means of transportation of these germs into our bodies is provided. A thorough washing, in fact a scrubbing, of the hands with soap and warm water before food is handled, will reduce the chances of germs being carried into our bodies."

"Adults wash and scrub their hands as a matter of course if the hands are covered with grease, paint, or some other readily apparent foreign substance, but all too frequently they make a fleeting inspection of the hands and, not seeing any dirt, neglect to wash them. Bacteria on the hands may not be visible to the naked eye, but it will gain entrance to the body if the hands are not washed thoroughly before eating."

"Parents should teach their children the importance of washing their hands after playing with cats or dogs. One needs only to observe the habits, manners and customs of these domestic pets to make the wisdom of this suggestion readily apparent. It is a well-known fact that the majority of the parasites which infest the intestinal tracts of children is traceable directly to contact with these pets. In the interest of health these animals should be banished, but that will never happen, so children should wash their hands after playing with their pets."

"Remember—clean hands will mean fewer sick days—wash them often and reduce the chance of contracting disease."

Mrs. L. P. Miller Is Elected Head of Christian Mothers

Hortonville—Thirty-two members of the Christian Mothers society of St. Peter and Paul Catholic parish held their annual meeting and election of officers Wednesday evening in the community club room of the village hall. The Rev. Andrew Quella addressed the assembly at the opening of the meeting. He spoke of the duties of a Christian mother toward her children and home.

Mrs. L. P. Miller was elected president of the society in place of Mrs. Elmer Miller who resigned after being elected for another year; Mrs. Louis Klein was elected vice president to succeed Mrs. Vincent Freiburgher, and Mrs. E. A. Buchman was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed Mrs. B. J. Olk. A social hour was enjoyed after the meeting and lunch was served.

IT'S HERE A YEAR AHEAD OF TIME! THE NEW 1940 RINSO IS OURS TODAY... THEY'VE PUT IN A WONDERFUL NEW "SUDD-BOOSTER"—AT NO EXTRA COST TO US

YIPPEE! AM I THRILLED. THE NEW 1940 RINSO WASHES CLOTHES W-I-I-T-E! WHAT ECONOMY! WHAT RICHNESS IN HARD WATER

IT KEEPS MY WASHABLE COLORS SO BRIGHT. I'M KEEN ABOUT THE NEW 1940 RINSO FOR DISHES AND ALL CLEANING, TOO. HOW IT CHASES GREASE!

Double Your Money Back

—if you don't find that the New 1940 Rinso justifies every claim we make for it!

ITS HERE! A full year before we thought we'd be able to give it to you. The New 1940 Rinso—with its amazing "sudd-boosters"—added at no extra cost to you! A few years ago this ingredient was so expensive we couldn't add it to Rinso without increasing Rinso's price.

Our soap-making experts said, "By 1940 we should be able to do it." But here's good news! Today the price of this amazing ingredient has been so reduced that we've been able to add it to the New Rinso—at no extra cost to you! You owe it to yourself to try Rinso. And so sure are we that you'll be thrilled with this remarkable better-than-ever Rinso, that we make this offer: Buy a box of Rinso. Try it. If you don't find that it justifies every claim we make for it, write to Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass., stating briefly your reasons and the price you paid for your package. Send your name and address and the top of the box of Rinso. You will receive back twice what you paid for Rinso. Offer limited to one box to a family.

THE BOX IS THE SAME. BUT, OH! WHAT A DIFFERENCE IN THE SUDD-BOOSTERS!

Offer expires February 2, 1939.
